FOREWORD

In the early spring of '62

A young girl reporter was challenged to

A tour of Red Lion High in 180 days

To record its events in every possible phase.

She proved a second Nellie Bly;

It almost seemed that she could fly,

So quickly 'round our school she went,

With little time in resting spent.

Armed with a camera and typewriter new,

There was nothing she couldn't do.

And although her journey was a race against time

She managed to meet each and every deadline.

On her travels she learned many things well

And it is of these that we wish to tell.

So this is our humble and earnest plea—

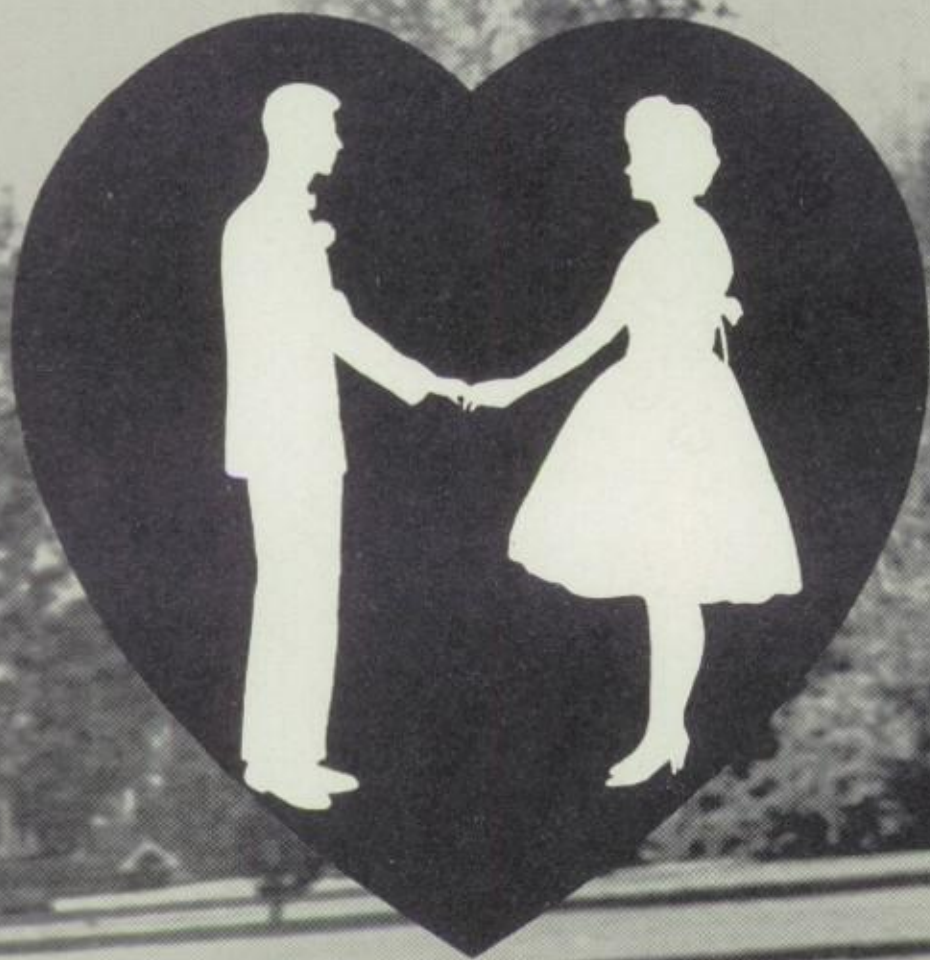

Make this trip with the class of '63.

SPRING '63

First Days En Route

As spring breaks the spell of the long winter, Lions discover new seasonal activities. With a flurry of excitement, track, golf and baseball take shape amid hectic preparations for Class Day and graduation. Students hear the "Sound of Music" as musical organizations practice for their debut, while the Concert Band prepares additional fare as it takes to the great outdoors for its annual program honoring the seniors at Fairmount Park. But wait, we must not forget the activity office (a very appropriate name!) where the '62 LEONID and LION staffs are closing up shop while the newly appointed staffs organize for the coming year.

A usually quiet (?) study hall comes to life as these eager underclassmen scrutinize the wealth of pictures discarded by the LION and LEONID staffs. If they like, they may purchase some pictures from the staffs.

The '62 LIONS have arrived at last, and co-editors Chuck Horn and Joel Michael hasten to unpack their precious cargo while Janice Shaul and Anona Wierman take a privileged first glance.

"While strollin' through the park one day in the merry, merry month of May" . . . sweet musical sounds fill the air as the Red Lion High School Concert Band, directed by Mr. George Ward, renders a program saluting the members of the senior class preceding graduation. This annual spring concert is highly enjoyed by students, parents, friends, and relatives.

... Honoring the Elite

When April showers fell this year, they delivered a downpour of honors to the senior set. Sallie Maurer received a SICO scholarship, and Joan Meckley was awarded the Franklin and Marshall book award, while others were chosen as National Honor Society members. Our amateur journalists and historians, members of the LEONID and LION staffs, honored their senior members, and those students who keep the "do-re-mi" alive at Red Lion were rewarded at the awards assembly on May 18.

Dana Grove has a right to be proud as she receives Red Lion's first "Safe Driver of the Year" award from Mr. Maddox, the Driver Education instructor. This award was based on actual driving ability and scores on a written test.

During the FFA assembly, Sam Taylor, George Jordon, and Fred Shaw receive a trophy from Robert Stover and Bill Masa of the York County Council of Cooperatives.

Regent Charles Horn leads the eleven seniors and thirteen juniors—new members of the National Honor Society—in the solemn pledge to uphold the principles of the society and their school.

Junior Play Called

Amid hot lights and stage decor emerge made-up faces of nervous juniors reviewing their lines. Then a hush befalls the audience as long, burdensome hours pay off at the evening performance. As the play progresses, jumbled plots are intermingled. Chaos breaks out (both backstage and on stage) as eloping Leslie and Aunt Lottie plunge from Father's self-made ladder, passing the stage window and landing (unseen) on back-stage mattresses. All this and more made "Room for the Groom" a smashing success and a boon to the Junior Class.

Oh, that horrible, hot stuff! Unfortunately, however, make-up is very necessary in the presentation of a play, so squint and bear the eye shadow, Karen Poff—it's only there for a little while—and beware of Miss Sweeney's stray fingers.

Sparkling Comedy

Miss Lord, Mrs. Jackowick, and Mr. Hardy appear happy after being presented with gifts by the cast—the students' "thanks" for the work and time the three had put into the play.

There must be a definite chill in the air, for Aunt Lottie, portrayed by Phyllis Goodyear, is preparing to head south. The onlooker is Mr. Allen, played by Jim Kohler.

"Bertrand, oh, Bertrand, you dance so divinely! O-n-e, t-w-o, t-h-r-e-e, g-l-i-d-e. O-n-e, t-w-o, t-h-r-e-e, g-l-i-d-e."—Susie Thompson's dreamy utterances in her moment of solitude (?). Frank Sechrist, Karen Poff, Milton Loyer, Phyllis Goodyear, Holly Fauth, James Kohler, and Diane Markey look very amusedly at her unusual and somewhat stiff dancing partner.

Exhibitors with Projects

Two of last year's mighty senior trappers, Eldon Gemmill and Dennis Gohn, proudly display the humble beginnings of a fur coat used in experimenting with static electricity.

Happily and contentedly working on their biology projects are Helen Kowach, Doris Kreeger, and Ronald Grim.

"Looks interesting!" "Will someone please explain it?" It could be a solar furnace, cloud chamber, wind tunnel . . . any one of the interesting physics' projects at the Science Fair.

to Interest All

Darryl Knisely is fascinated by the splints—oops—skis that were made in the shop department as winter projects. They not only provided good practical experience in woodworking, but also were later a source of good times on the snow.

Maurice Keesey seems very interested in his biology project . . . the study of planaria and their phenomenal ability to "grow" new parts. Nevertheless . . . wonder how the planaria feel about that pair of pliers!

A little of this, a little of that, and pow—no more chemistry room (or students!). Fortunately there is little chance of this happening; the students are careful, and Mr. Shaffer keeps an eye on any activity involving danger. Here some senior chemistry students are working on projects on one of several evenings set aside for this purpose.

Entertaining LIONS . . .

On Fridays at Red Lion there is never any "twiddling of thumbs," for traditionally several popular assembly programs are presented. The Student Council Campaign assembly gives "voters" a chance to see and hear candidates for offices, while the D-Town Exchange assembly provides the Red Lion student body an opportunity to witness some excellent neighboring talent. The FFA, with their reputation for entering wholeheartedly into any project, recreational or educational, is another favorite, for their enthusiasm always rubs off on the LIONS. Last but not least is the Night of Music preview—a swingin' way to round out the year!

The lively, high-stepping color guard of Dalls-town High School presents a precision drill during the annual exchange assembly.

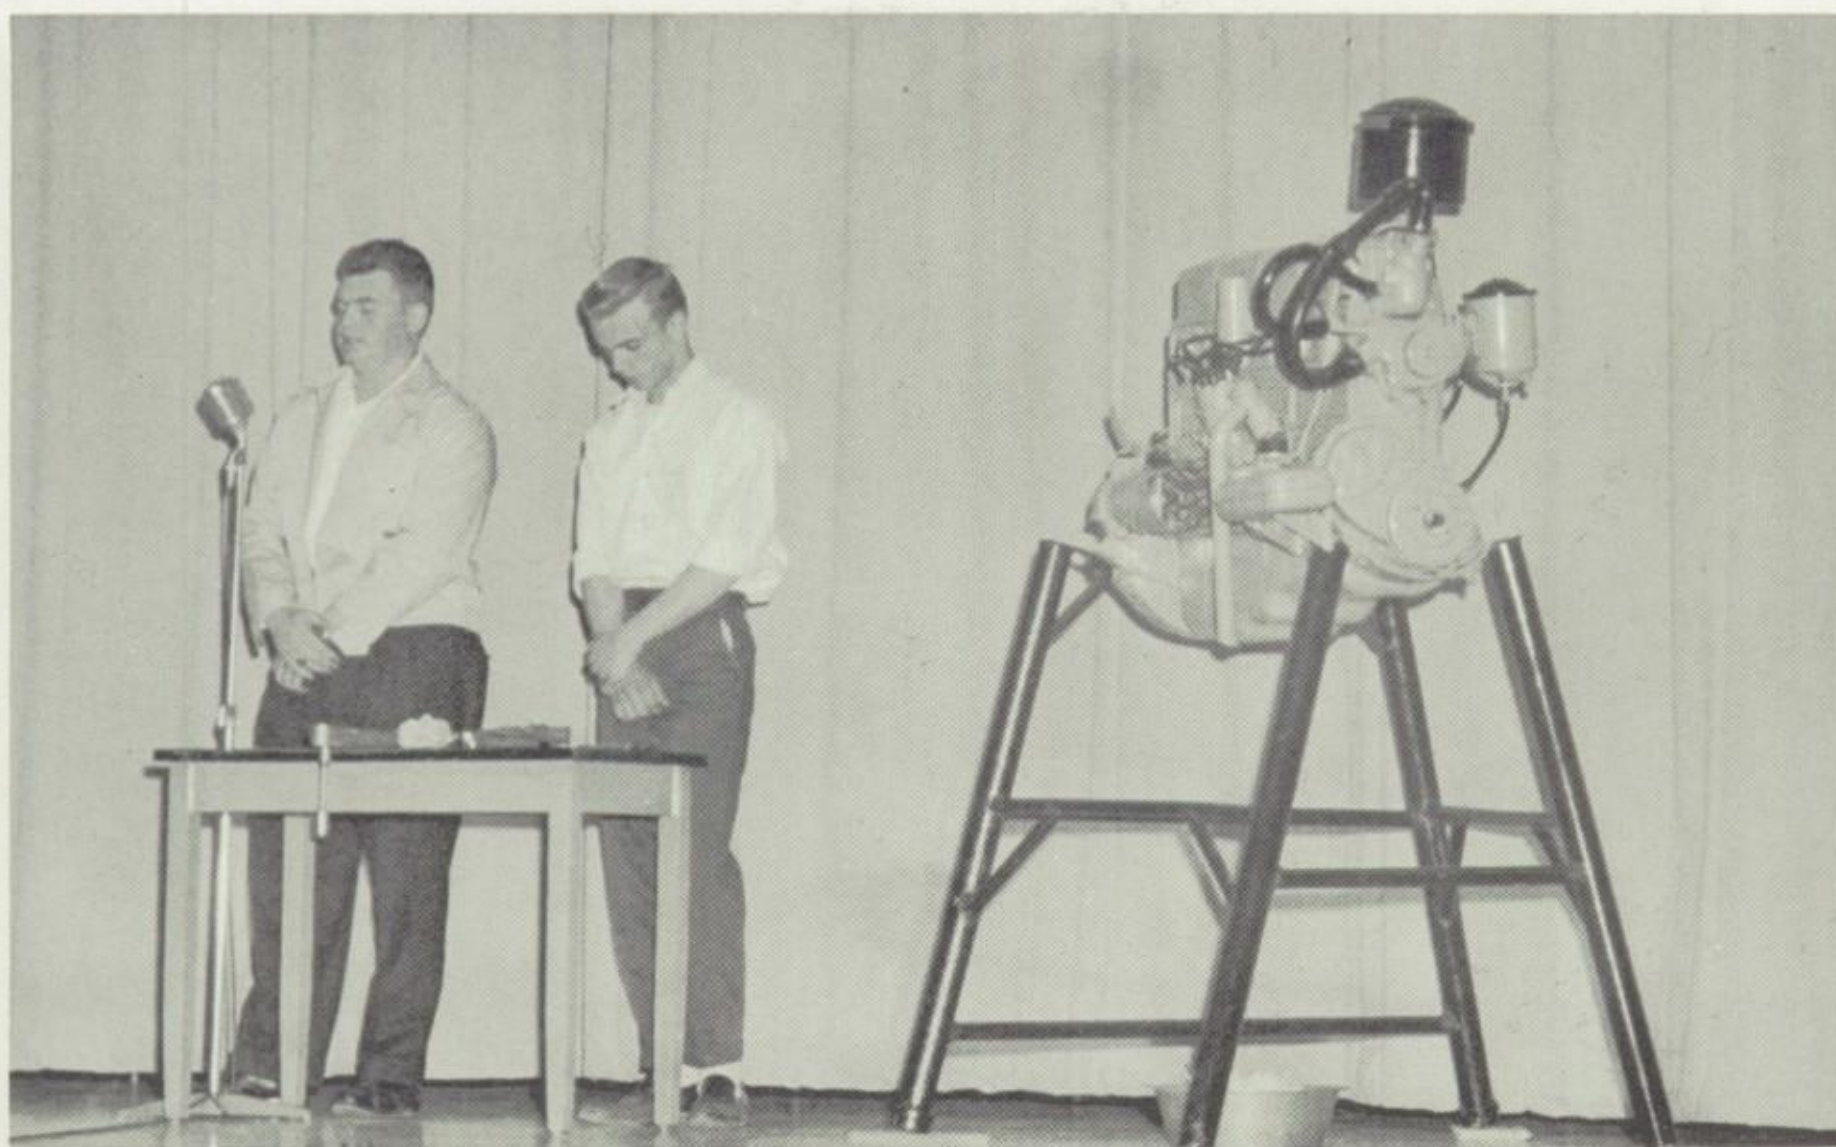

The nimble fingers of Nancy Kauffelt dance rhythmically over the keys, producing the theme from "The Apartment" in the Night of Music assembly.

Donald Daugherty, accompanied by the Concert Band, very capably renders "Rondina," a difficult French horn solo, at the Night of Music.

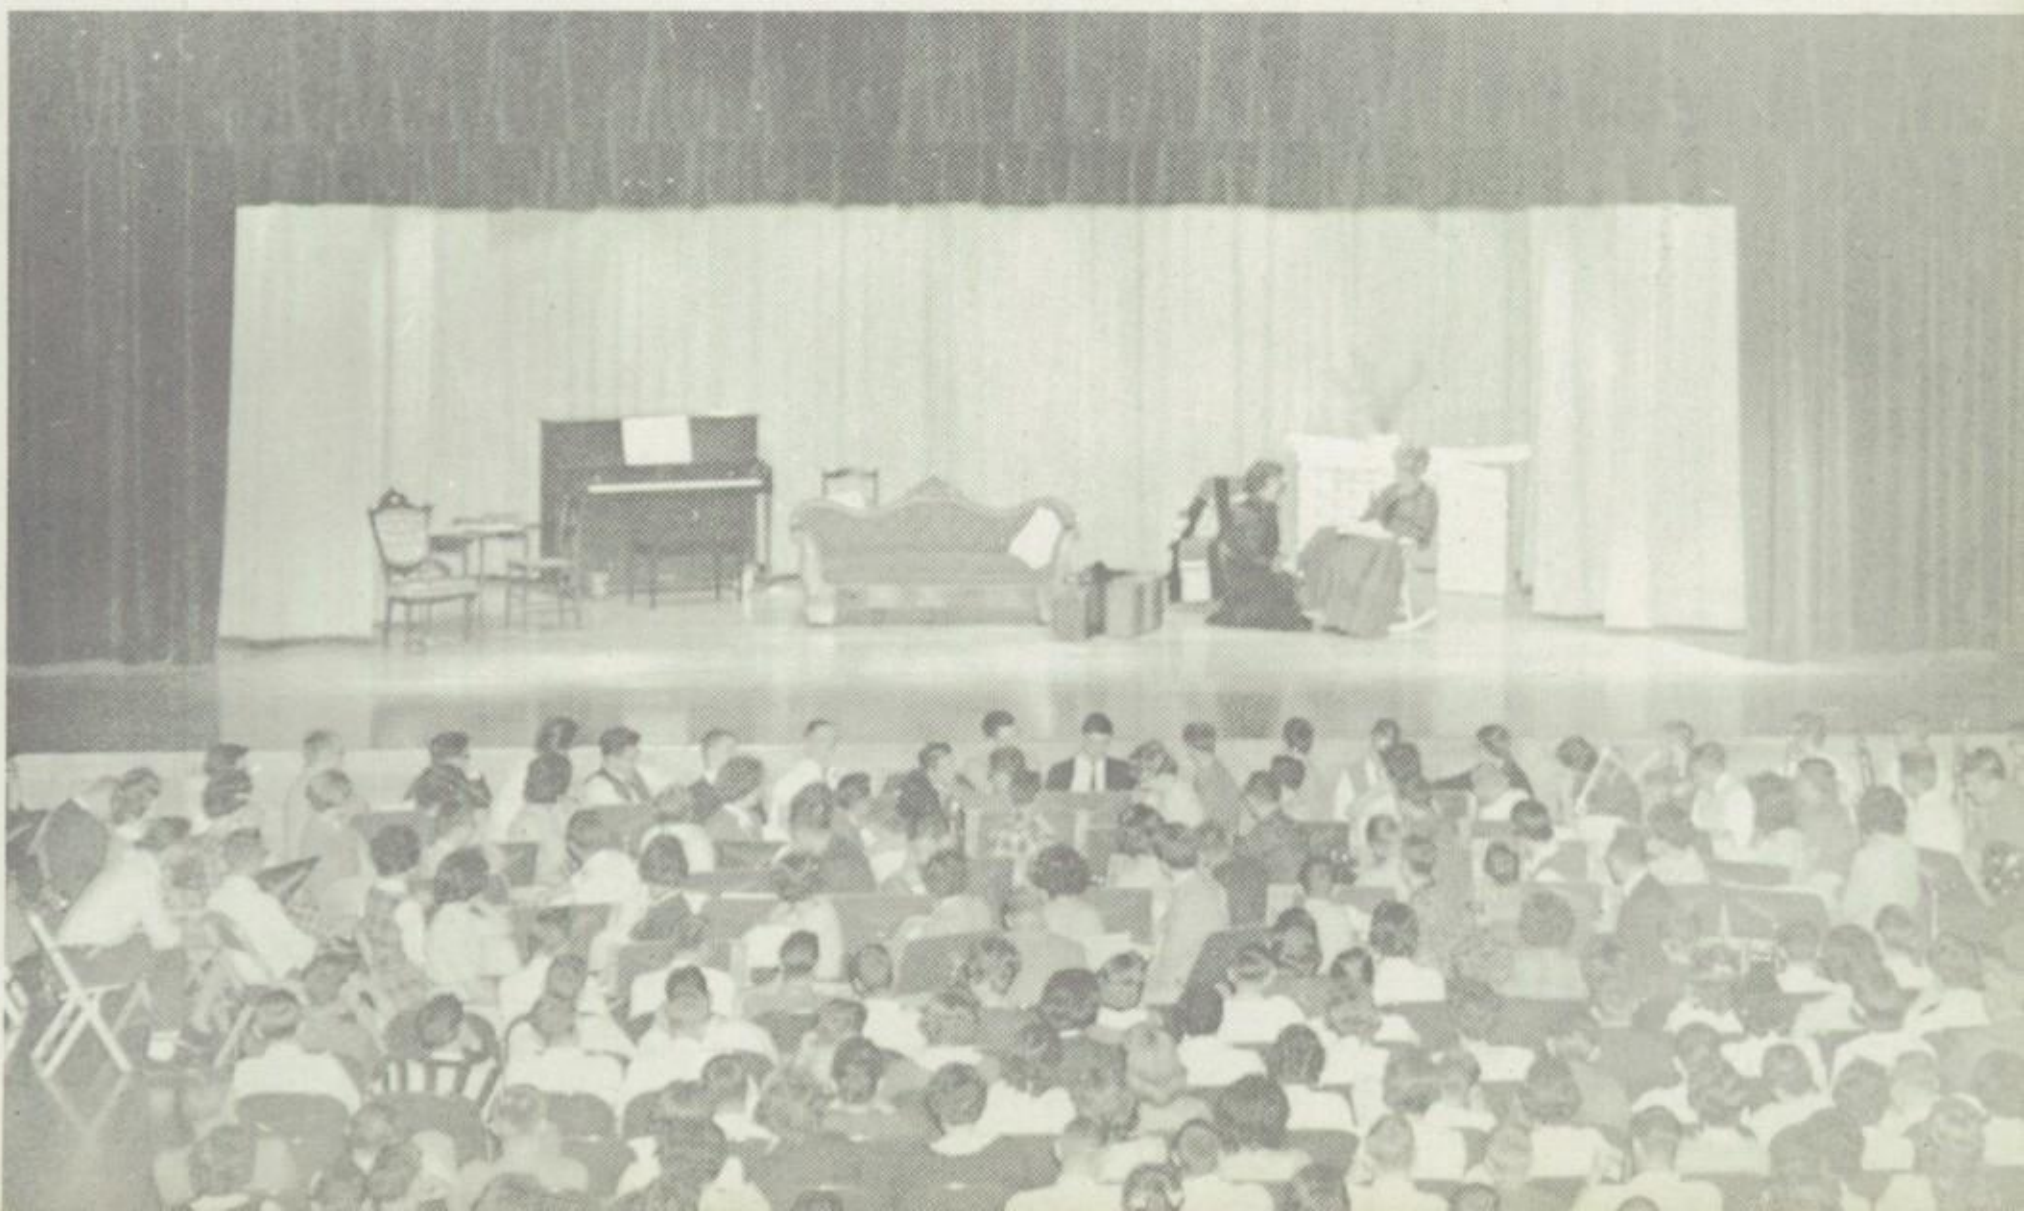

Charged with Youthful Exuberance

In the FFA assembly Chris Warner and Robert Krouse display their mechanical ingenuity by explaining the parts of a six-cylinder engine which they reconstructed and painted.

As one play in a "double feature" assembly, several sophomore girls are shown in a scene from Louisa May Alcott's Little Women. After this, two 10A boys rendered a skit about two Civil War soldiers—a Yank and a Confederate.

Preparations Made with

Jan Grim, one of Mrs. Falcone's sixth grade students, digs deeply into his pocket for some unknown object while listening to student teacher Dana Grove's word of wisdom. Dana, as a member of the FTA, spends one period every week in the elementary building.

Students versus air pressure; this class of enthusiastic freshmen is discovering the tenacity of the air. The principles of this famous experiment will be examined later; at the time being all they are concerned about is proving their strength to themselves and Mr. Hardy.

Our future protectors, Earl Gohn, Bob Kruger, and James Pearson, seem very interested in what Corporal Lonardi, representative of the State Police at the Career Conference, has to say regarding a career in his field.

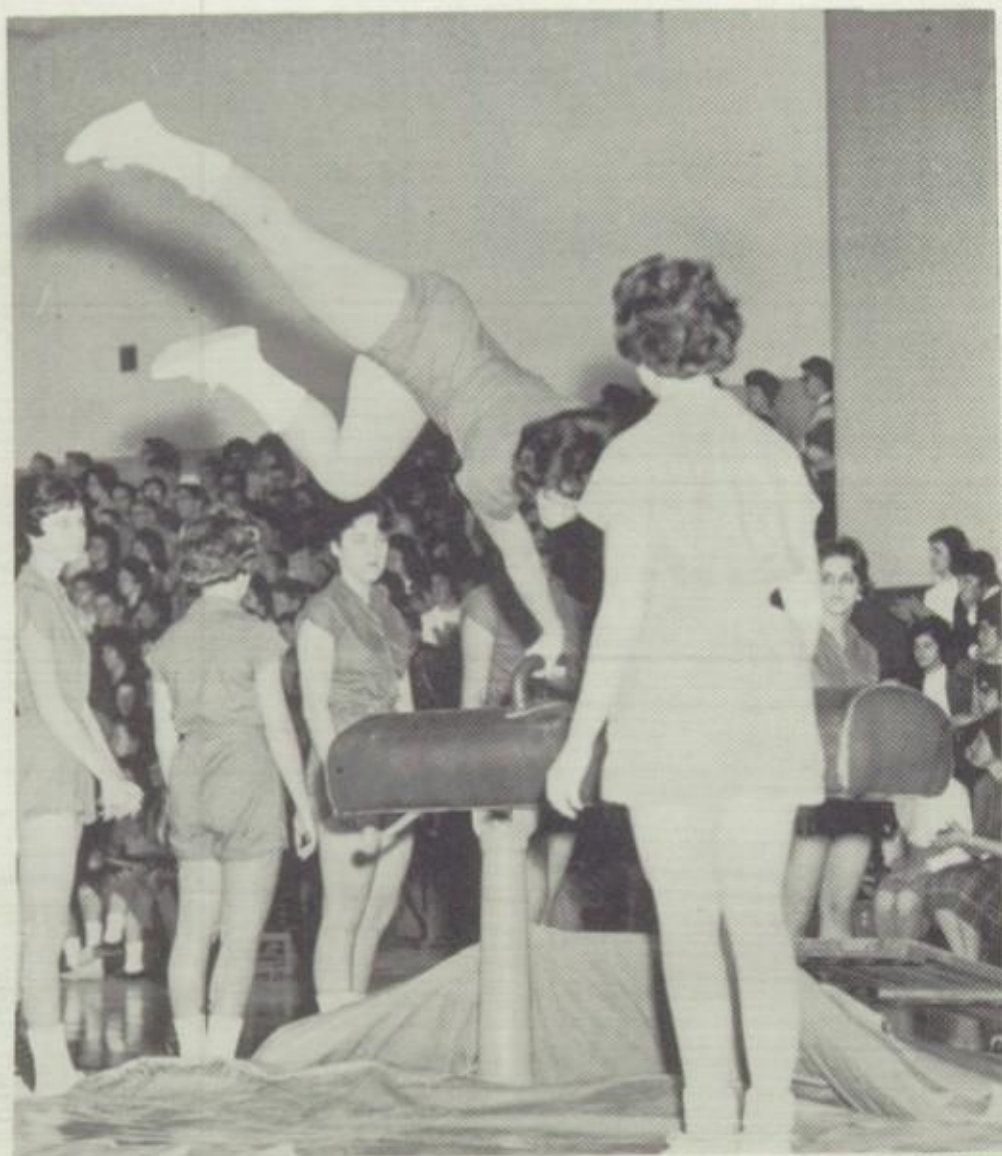

Doctor, lawyer, Indian chief—whatever your choice, it's bound to be represented at the Career Conference, where guests distinguished in their particular field brief students on the preparation and qualifications necessary for each occupation as well as on salaries and working conditions which can be expected. Among those vocational areas represented at the '62 conference were home economics, nursing, engineering, accounting, teaching, and the ministry. Additional information for those interested in teaching can be obtained by joining the Future Teachers Club.

an Eye to the Future

For those who are eager to try anything short of tying themselves in knots, Red Lion offers the Boys' and Girls' Tumbling Clubs, where they can learn under careful supervision. Once a year these groups join with the Dancing Club in sponsoring an exhibition which is open to the public. Here the students display the abilities they have gained and developed. Some of the highlights of this year's Gym Review were a marching and physical fitness drill, demonstrations by the Dancing Club, a wrestling match, and tumbling and apparatus work.

Mr. Fitzkee watches carefully to see if the head lock on Hugh Morton pays off and adds another point to the score of John Frey in one of the exciting wrestling matches at the gym review.

A horse is a horse, but this one neither eats, makes noise, nor runs; it does little more than provide a base for Kay Vasellas's stunt in the gym review assembly while Peggy Wink, Beverly Blouse, Carolyn Markel, Joan Meckley, and Connie Jo Hinkle await their turns to "mount."

"He flies through the air with the greatest of ease" . . . let's hope so, anyway! Larry Snyder seems very capable of accomplishing the dive over his human "barrels" while Chris Warner hurries to take his turn.

Irons and Woods

'62 Golf Team—Coach Nitchkey, F. Cope, K. Herman, C. Horn, D. Portner, G. Stump, D. Rost, R. Koons, W. Sechrist, R. Galbreath, and M. Miller.

Sophomore Fred Cope, hoping for the best, blasts his way out of a sand trap on the fifth hole at the Red Lion Country Club.

The first warm spring day of any year is sure to turn the thoughts of our young LIONS to the many spring activities—one of which is Golf; and the spring of '62 was certainly no exception! Ten boys went out for this popular sport, but unfortunately only five of them could be chosen as members of the team. Those lucky enough to be picked for the 1961-62 GOLF squad were seniors Charles Horn, Donald Portner, and William Sechrist; junior David Rost; and sophomore Fred Cope. The returning lettermen were Horn and Portner. Late snows interrupted practice, but apparently with no ill effects, for the team, which was coached by Mr. Charles Nitchkey, ended the season with a 5-4 record. This put them in fourth place in the York County Interscholastic Golf League. A job well done, boys!

Important shot? . . . it very well could be. Judging by the look of concentration on Dave Rost's face, Simon says . . . it is!

Wayne Neff, a budding freshman, takes a hefty cut at a pitch delivered by one of Red Lion's rivals in the County League.

Tally up another run for Red Lion! Senior Bill Grim is shown crossing Kennard-Dale's home plate after one of his numerous hits.

Sophomore John Pitzer prepares to take a low pitch as the umpire peers over his shoulder at another rousing game on the Windsor field.

Valuable Experience

The first few warm days of spring find John Pitzer dressed and raring to take a swing at anything resembling a ball.

Baseball is perhaps the most popular of the spring sports, and with just cause, for Red Lion players have long been York County Scholastic Baseball and Southern Division champs. Such an astounding record is a tribute to Red Lion, and the boys who accomplished these feats have reason to be proud. This year they received no trophy, but they gained the companionship that comes from working together toward the same goal. Early in snowy March the fellows started practice under the guiding hand of Mr. Fitzkee. For consistent wins, practice is a must, and he was always willing to see that his boys got enough of it. Their record of six wins, four losses, and one draw was very commendable since practically all positions were filled with newcomers!

Enthusiastic Trackmen

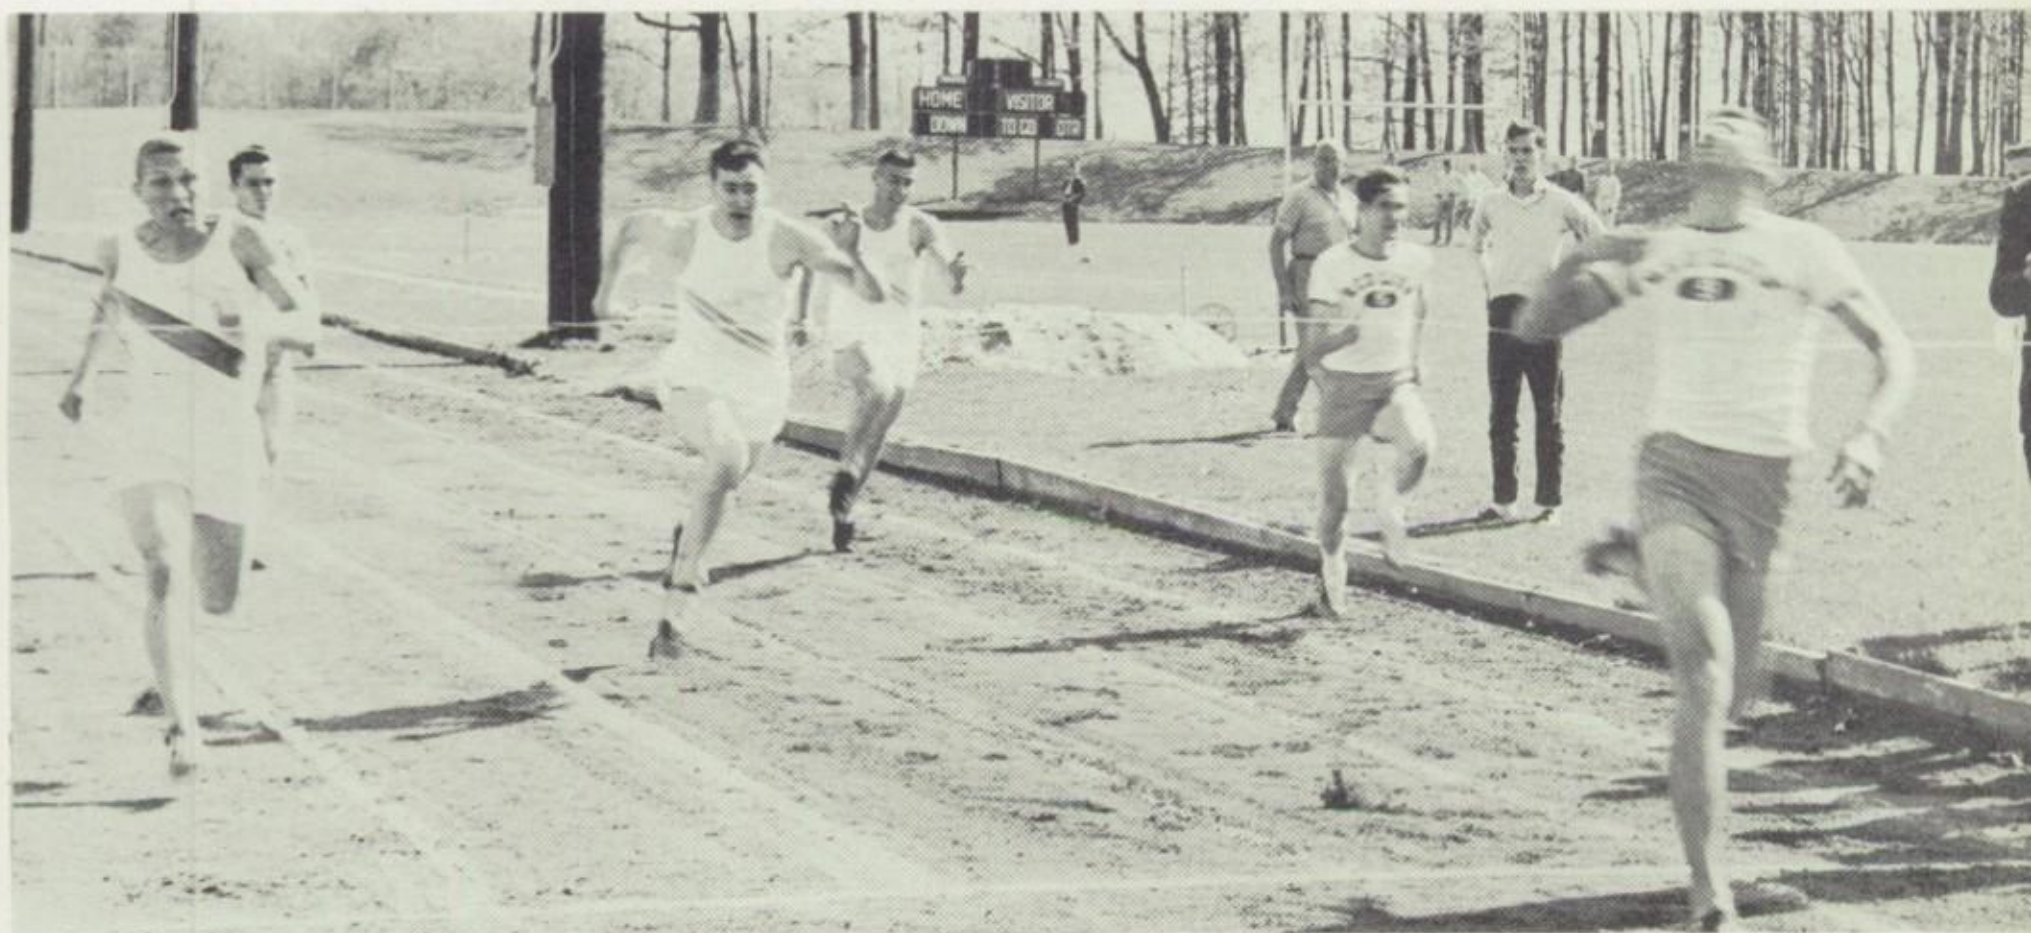

'62 Track Team—Front: P. Gladfelter, D. Thompson, I. Trout, J. Matthews, S. Mitzel, S. Anderson. Second: W. Sechrist, J. Golden, P. Hoffmaster, S. Markel, D. Deardorff, L. Snyder, J. Oaks, L. It's a bird! It's a plane! No, it's Sheldon Markel going over the bar at one of the track team's meets. Sheldon is one of our promising young pole vaulters.

Every evening after school, commencing February 26, twenty-nine track enthusiasts could be seen undergoing rigorous calisthenics at the skillful hand of Coach Richards. Much to the squad's disappointment, however, the new track could not be used due to poor drainage. Although the squad split the meets evenly with three wins and three losses, many new records were set: Phil Gladfelter, a new county 220 record, lowering the old time of 22.7 to 22.4; Jerre Golden, a new school record of 10'3" in the pole vault; and the 880 relay team, a new school record of 1:35.9, lowering the old record of 1:38.6 by 2.7 seconds. An interesting side note is the fact that eight of these boys were able to maintain positions on the honor roll throughout the season.

Prove Swift!

Phil Gladfelter, one of the county's fastest sprinters, is shown here perfecting the art of defeating our biggest rival, Dallastown, in the 100-yard dash. In the background are Warren Grove and Stewart Mitzel, two of his fellow teammates, who are trying to add to Red Lion's score by placing in the event.

Senior Irwin Trout displays speed, finesse, and coordination in running the highly difficult hurdles at a typical afternoon practice session.

Phyllis Goodyear and her escort, Frank Sechrist, retire from the dance floor for a few minutes to examine this sunken treasure chest. Perhaps it contains "gold doubloons and pieces of eight," for it has certainly become the subject of their undivided attention.

Get your aqua lung in good shape and join in the fun at "Stairway to the Sea!" Juniors, seniors, and guests danced amid this underwater paradise to the dreamy music of John Hutton and his orchestra until the enchanted hour of midnight arrived.

Seniors . . . Caught in

Prom night '62 found seniors, juniors and guests descending a "Stairway to the Sea." This—the social event of the year—miraculously transformed the gym into an underwater scene replete with fish, seaweed, sand, lost treasure, and yards and yards of fishing net. After imbibing this mystic setting for three hours, however, dancers were ready—at the stroke of 12—to head for the Red Lion Country Club and the all-night party. There bowling, golf, movies, and dancing kept them wide awake to greet the dawn; then a hearty breakfast. Thus ended the night of all nights as tired but happy Prom-goers headed home.

Stop the twisting and smile—you're on "Candid Camera." That's very good, Holly Fauth, but, Beverly Blouse, you're just not with it—can't you see it's only the yearbook camera sharing in some of the fun at the all night party?

a Whirl of Activity

"So long! It's been good to know you!"—at least the seniors felt that way when they offered a tour of the good old U. S. A. as their Class Day presentation. Even the teachers look forward to this assembly and that "special surprise" from the graduating Lions, who display their talents from singing, to twisting, to just plain having fun.

Among the tropical palms, these natives, Pam Strickler, Kirby Hickey, and Susan Shekart, are seen doing their dance ritual commonly referred to as the twist. Seriously, though, it's only the seniors enjoying themselves on Class Day.

That's right, girls—heads up, kick those legs, and don't forget to smile—now altogether—ta-ra-ra—bomp-te-a—ta-ra-ra—bomp-te-a! Class Day always has an added sparkle when our nimble-footed dancers display their (graceful?) talents.

Say there! Did someone take a wrong turn in the school parking lot? Well, the students don't seem very worried, for it's only the '62 seniors waving happily as they pass by on their Class Day Tour of the good old U. S. A.

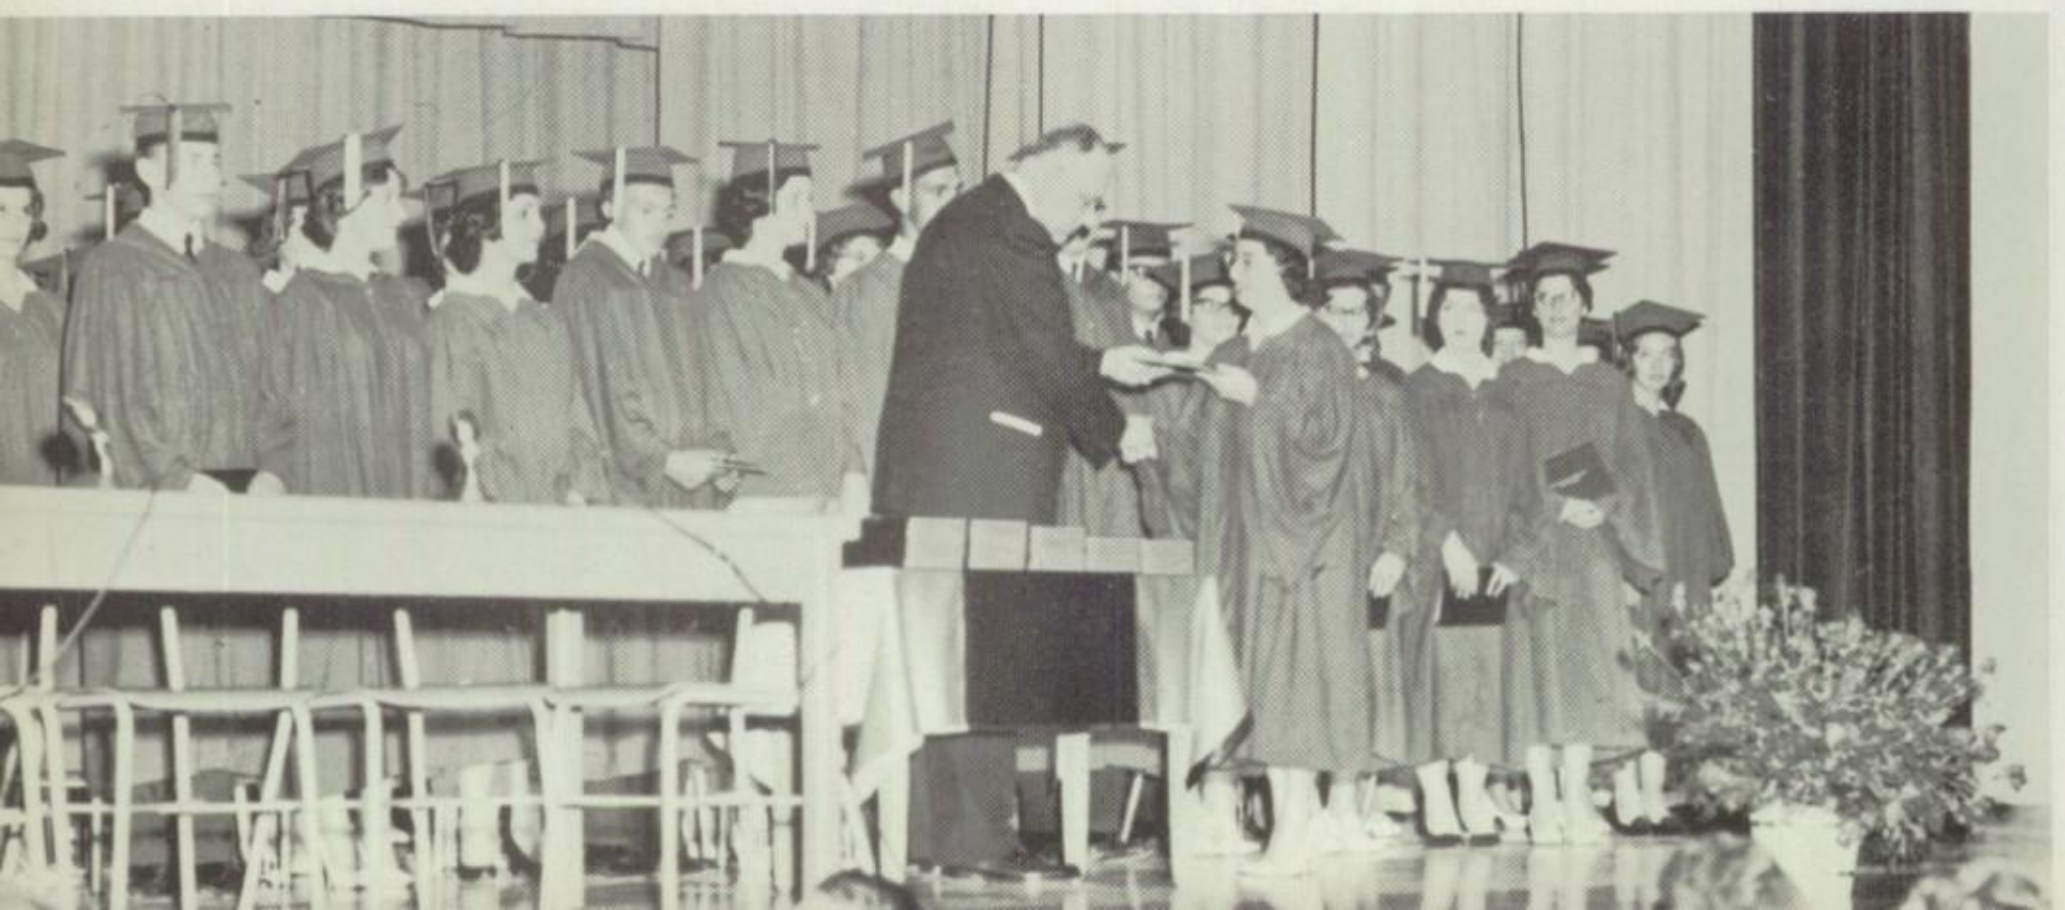

Graduating Lions Experience

The beginning of the end started for the seniors at the Baccalaureate Service on Sunday evening, May 27, 1962. At this service they heard an inspiring message from the Rev. Dr. Oliver Maurer, of St. John's United Church of Christ. The following day held the much awaited Commencement with its "Pomp and Circumstance," featuring a panel consisting of Dorcas Haines, Holly Jo Grove, Mary Ann Hangen, Charles Horn, and Joel Michael. They explored the economic aspects, social impacts, political views, and moral values of the Space Age. The challenging address of the evening, "If Punctuation Marks Could Speak," was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Ernest Campbell. At last came the presentation of the diplomas by Dr. Dellinger and Mr. Sample. For the seniors of '62, high school is over, but they will always look back with fond memories to "dear old Red Lion High."

The "Space Age Enigma" panel, Charles Horn, Dorcas Haines, Mary Ann Hangen, Holly Jo Grove, and Joel Michael, are shown reviewing and discussing plans with the commencement speaker, the Rev. Dr. Ernest T. Campbell.

A happy yet nostalgic moment for the class of '62 arrived when Dr. Woodrow S. Dellinger, president of the school board, presented them with their diplomas. For these seniors it was the culmination of twelve years of hard work.

the Thrill of a Commencement

The principal speaker at the commencement exercises, the Rev. Dr. Ernest T. Campbell, from the First Presbyterian Church in York, gave the seniors food for thought with his inspiring message "If Punctuation Marks Could Speak."

On May 28 at 8:00 p.m. came the greatly anticipated commencement exercises and the senior processional with all its style. After this the members of the class of '62 would have to make their own way in the world.

FALL '62

Mr. Frederick P. Sample, B.A., M.Ed. . . . Supervising Principal . . . Director of Red Lion Rotary Club and Red Lion Jaycees, chairman of Civil Service Commission, and elder of St. John's United Church of Christ . . . Last summer as well as additional time this fall were spent working for his Doctorate in Education. An old hobby is reading; a new one, ice skating.

Mrs. Jeannette Trout, Mr. Sample's secretary, also works indirectly for all other principals in the Red Lion school system and is film coordinator for the Millersville film library.

Administration Backs

Major tasks of administration for which our supervising principal, Mr. Sample, is responsible are coordination of the school system, fulfillment of all state requirements, and effective execution of policies of the school board. A promising change in program has added a heavy burden to the traditional tasks of our administrators. Under the new curriculum inaugurated this year, a set of requirements for each grade level was established, and electives based upon abilities and vocational interests were made available to students in order that they may more freely take advantage of courses needed to develop their interests.

Mr. Thomas E. Zerbe, B.S., M.A. . . . High School Principal . . . Besides participating in community affairs, Mr. Zerbe enjoys such domestic hobbies as collecting model sailing ships and steam locomotives, improving the home, and completing do-it-yourself activities. Music, photography, golf, and books are among his special interests, but during last summer scheduling was his main preoccupation.

New Curriculum

Mr. Zerbe's managerial duties are centered in the high school building, for which new teachers must be hired to accommodate the growth of the entering freshman class. Scheduling of pupils and teachers to arrive at the same place at the same time is a primary responsibility of our principal. For him, too, the new curriculum poses new problems, but he is nonetheless well satisfied with the more flexible program, with its uniform graduation requirements, which now offers a wide variety of electives suitable for a school of our size. No longer forced to enroll in subjects unsuited to their needs, students can move easily into the areas of learning that more nearly fulfill their individual interests and abilities.

Mrs. Reba Berwagger, secretary to Mr. Zerbe, also handles announcements to students and faculty, keeps attendance records, and takes charge of school finances and records.

V. I. P.'s Make Our Educational

Each member of our administrative staff fills an individual role in a large-scale operation. While Mr. Seitz, as secretary to the school board, works directly with the district's supervising principal, Mr. Tschop and Mr. Miller serve as administrative assistants. Mr. Tschop's duties are chiefly in the areas of purchasing and pupil transportation; Mr. Miller devotes most of his time to individual psychological evaluations and child accounting.

Mr. Martin F. Miller, B.A., M.S. . . . Surveillance over pupil personnel matters fills Mr. Miller's business day, but his spare time is occupied with music and a miniature railroad. He is also a reader and owns a collection of classical works that rivals the public library's.

Mr. Robert P. Tschop, B.S. . . . General Assistant in administration of all Red Lion Area schools . . . He enjoys spectator sports, church work and the reading of science and history, devoting some spare time to his special hobby—the American Civil War. Last summer . . . work!

Mr. Carl E. Seitz . . . Secretary to Red Lion Area Schools . . . Official representative of the school board in cases of school attendance law violations . . . Away from his office, he is Associate Sunday School Superintendent, while music and horticulture provide relaxation.

Mrs. Edna Mae Tracey (seated), secretary to Mr. Seitz, Mr. Miller and Mr. Tschop, performs general secretarial duties. Miss June Miller, a newcomer this year, is secretary to Mr. and Mrs. Sheckart.

System Successful and Efficient

The hard-working personnel in the office of Red Lion Area Senior High School is responsible for the many important services on which our school depends. Along with Mr. Sample and Mr. Zerbe, members of the administrative staff regularly attend school board meetings, where policies are determined which require execution, from over-all planning by the principals down to the final dot for the i and cross for the t on secretarial typewriters. (Secretaries, in addition, help the teaching force by mimeographing and duplicating tests and papers.) Current problems of major importance pending before the school board are the provision of sufficient housing for the senior high school student body, and deliberation over the Pennsylvania state law, to become effective in July, 1965, which requires combination of school units into minimum enrollments of 4,000 students.

Miss Betty Craley figures our accounts payable and receivable as well as payroll for all cafeteria employees. She also sells bus and lunch tickets to students. Mrs. Colleen Grove sorts and distributes faculty mail, operates the switchboard, and mimeographs tests for faculty members.

English Instructors Provide

This is not a model of our school, but a scale model of the stage of the Globe Theatre in old London, England. Miss Myers explains, while her helper, Mary Groves, looks on.

Confucius say (or is it says . . . or said?) . . . variety is the spice of life. Red Lion's English Department has found that variety is also the spice of their subject. For literary fare again this year students enjoyed such classics as The Odyssey, Silas Marner, Great Expectations, and Shakespeare's Julius Caesar and Macbeth. But something new was also needed and was furnished by the writing of original poetry, by the study of both modern grammar and the history of our language, and by such new readings as Oedipus Rex, The Scarlet Letter, and Cry, the Beloved Country. Films, film strips, records and panel discussions were used to supplement texts, and a senior honors class was inaugurated.

Mrs. Hilda C. Jackowick, B.A., M.Ed. . . . Latin, English I, III, IV . . . Dramatics Club, Senior and Junior Plays, Class Day . . . Having spent the summer enjoying a big time in a small country town, Mrs. Jackowick now confines her interests to cooking and traveling the antique trails.

Miss Naomi Myers, B.S. . . . English I, II, III . . . Freshman Class Adviser . . . Keeping busy is Miss Myers' greatest interest. This she pursues by reading, writing letters, or . . . doing something for someone when it's least expected.

Miss Helen E. Clevenger, B.A., M.A. . . . English I, III, IV, Latin II, III . . . Although Miss Clevenger taught summer school at Red Lion, she still found time to enjoy her favorite hobbies, which include gardening, knitting, reading, and traveling.

Mrs. Dorothy S. Adams, B.S. . . . English I, Reading, Music I . . . Mixed Chorus, Girls' Chorus . . . Despite a fantastic music schedule both in school and out, Mrs. Adams also has been host to our exchange teacher during his stay at Red Lion.

Basis for Future Achievement

Miss Marie Keeports, B.A., M.A. . . . English II, III, IV . . . LEONID . . . Having spent her summer attending the English Institute at Penn State, Miss Keeports now resorts to knitting in her leisure hours. A brief visit to New Orleans preceded her summer school session.

Mrs. A. Irene Hangen, B.A. . . . English I, II, III, IV . . . Music is not only a hobby but an art with Mrs. Hangen. Recently a sense of travel propelled her to Williamsburg, Virginia.

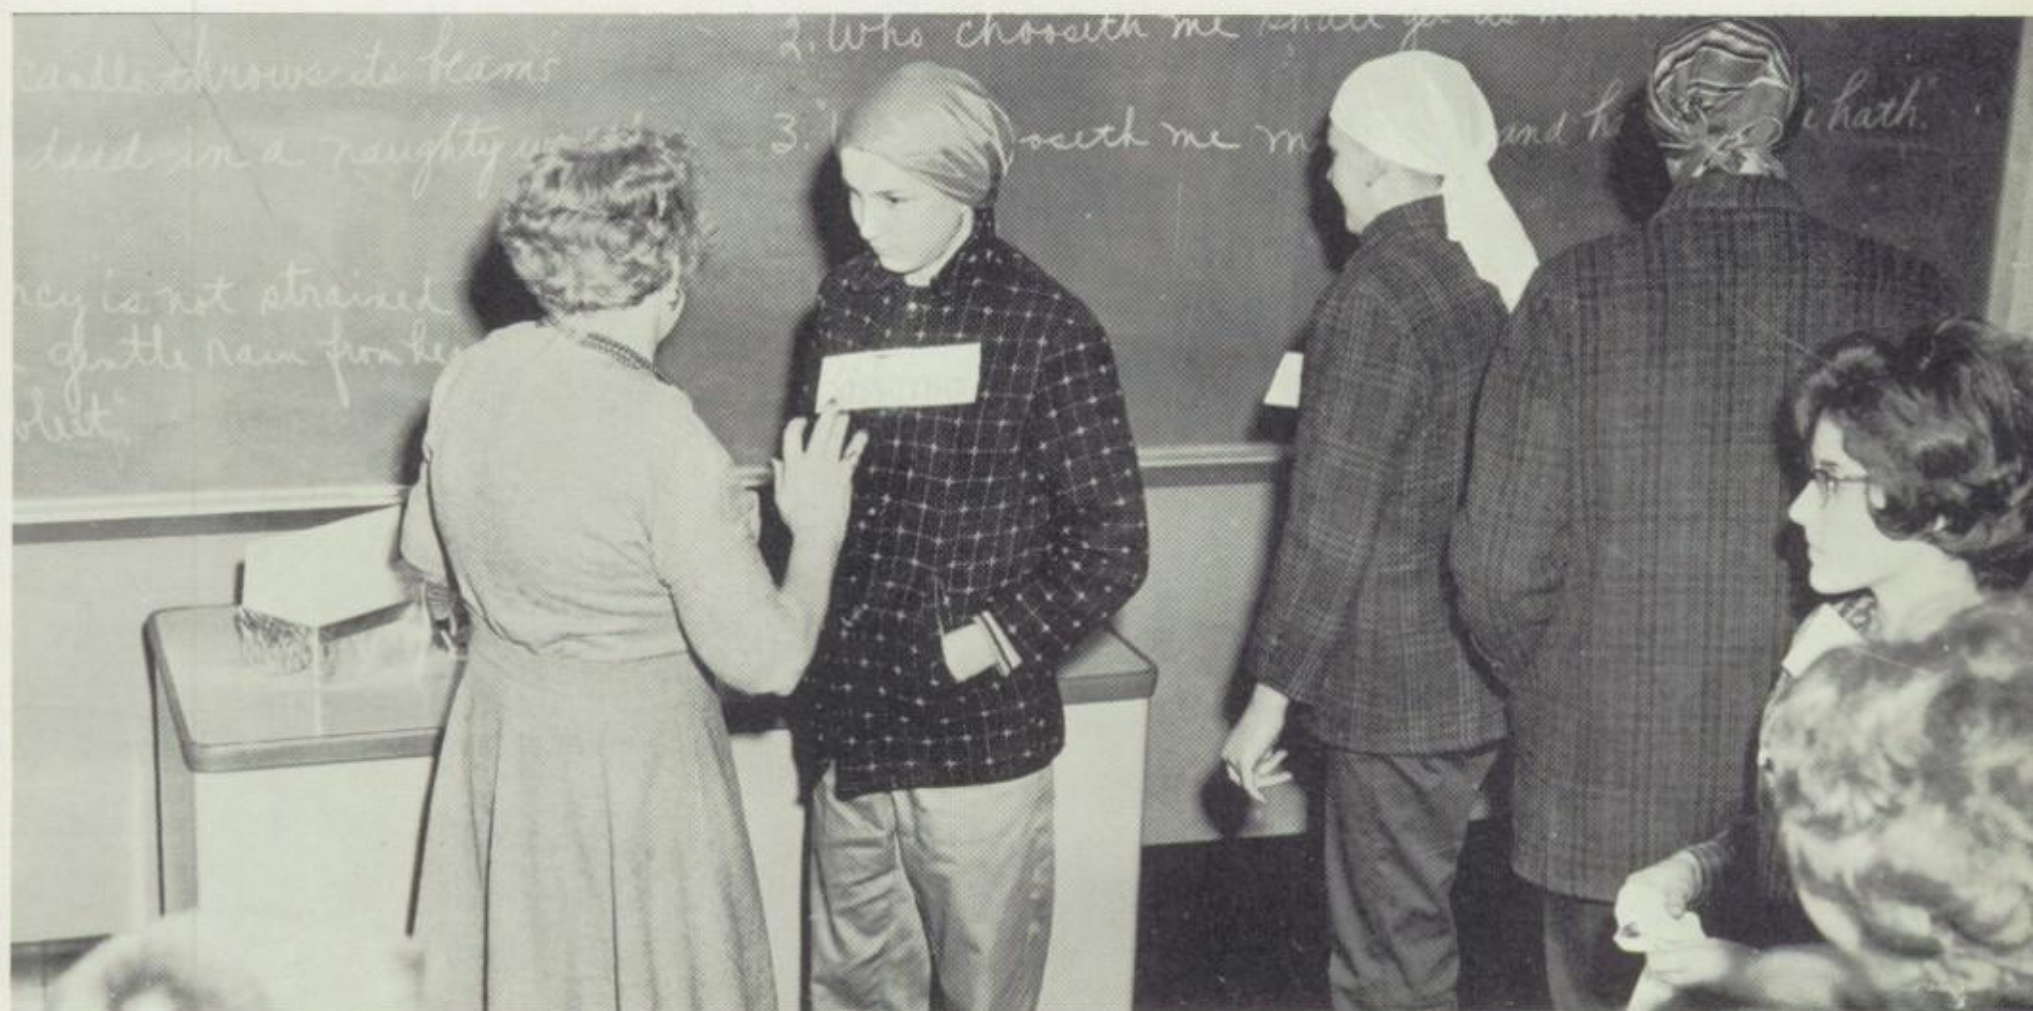

Mr. David Coren, B.S. . . . English . . . Debating Club . . . A York resident and a newcomer to our school, Mr. Coren is retiring from business to devote his energies to teaching. His hobbies are chess and chamber music, and he is concertmaster of the York Symphony.

Mrs. Isabel Starke, B.A. . . . English II, III, IV . . . LION . . . After several weeks at Cape Cod and Martha's Vineyard, attendance at the Institute in English at Penn State, sponsored by the commission on English of the CEEB, topped the summer for Mrs. Starke.

Those Who Claim Dates, Facts and

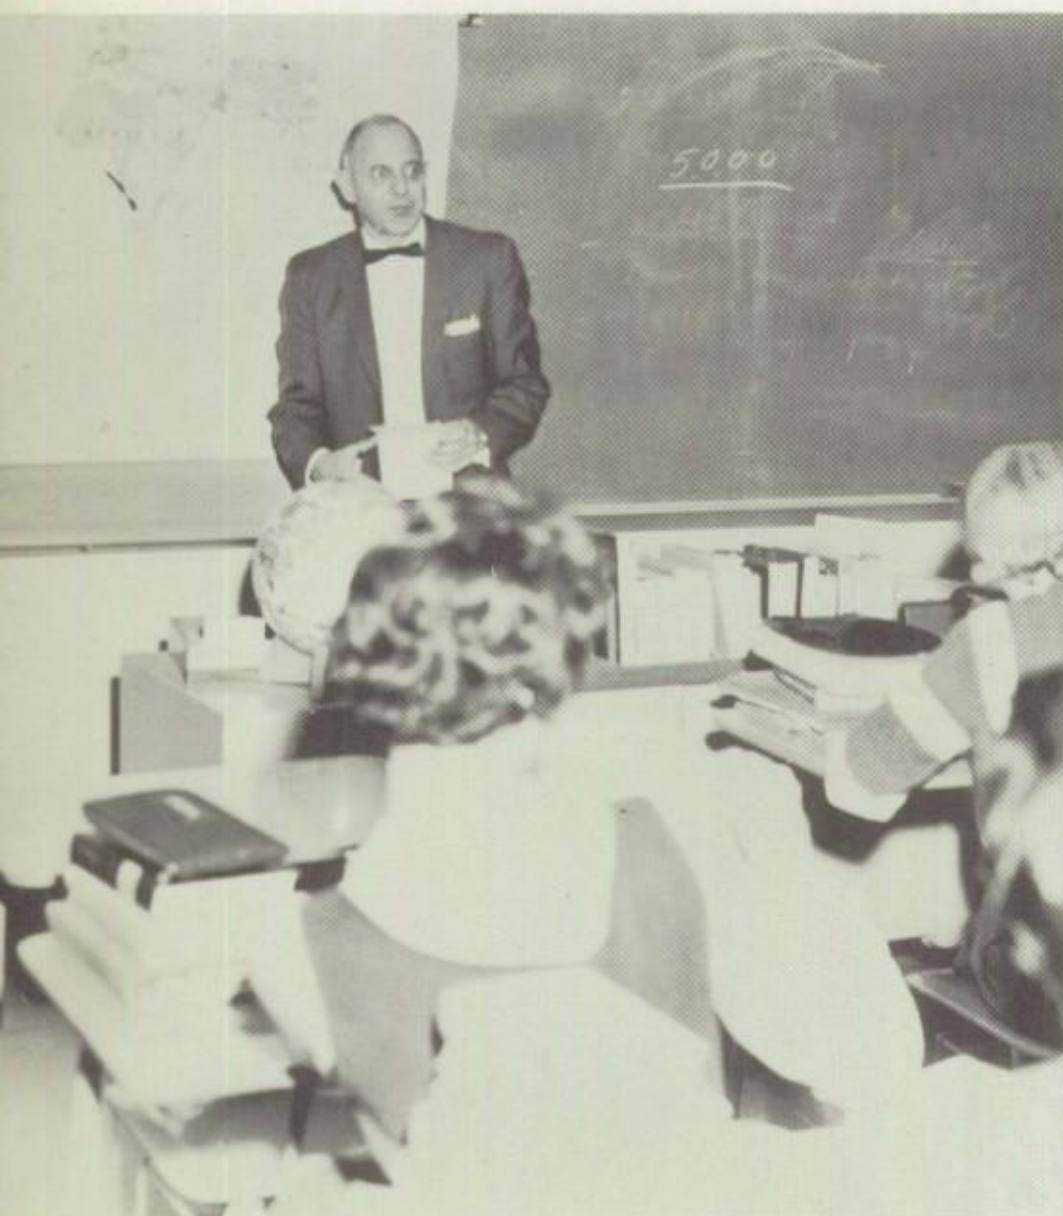

Mr. Dale L. Shellenberger, B.A. . . . Civics, World History . . . Sophomore Adviser, Assistant Varsity Football, Varsity Basketball . . . Mr. Shellenberger lists as his hobbies reading and sports of all kinds.

Mr. Carlin R. Rhine, B.A. . . . World History, English . . . Freshman Basketball . . . Mr. Rhine, a newcomer to the faculty from Annville, includes among his interests sports, music, and a study of the Middle Ages.

Mr. Clair A. Frits, B.S., M.Ed. . . . Sociology, Political Science . . . Mr. Frits spent some time last summer touring New York City, and while there saw several Broadway plays including "Mary, Mary" and "My Fair Lady."

Mr. Harold Myers is caught in the act of lecturing to an eleventh grade American History class . . . or he might be looking for an argument.

In an endeavor to make history come alive, teachers supplemented their texts in several ways. In the assembly on November the second, student politicians gave campaign speeches supporting one of the two candidates for the governorship of the Keystone state, and during the following week a schoolwide mock election was held. Projects, which enabled pupils to dig deeper into a particular phase of history, ranged from term papers to class research on subjects such as "tracing the development of one or more ingredients in the make-up of a civilization from prehistoric to modern times."

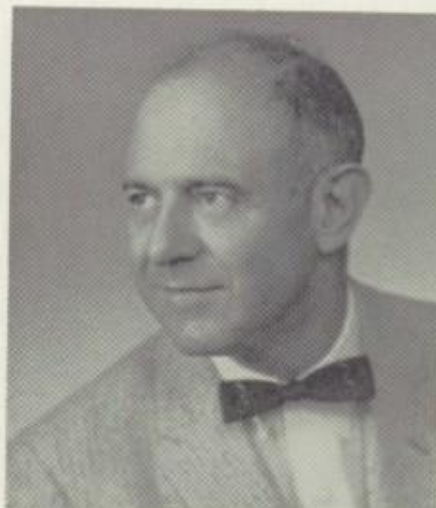

Statistics Are Easy to Learn

Mr. Paul I. Hangen, B.A. . . . Civics . . . Tickets, Electric Clock operator, Tennis . . . Mr. Hangen's hobbies include bridge, tennis, and photography. Last summer he took a trip which included a visit to the famous Colonial town, Williamsburg.

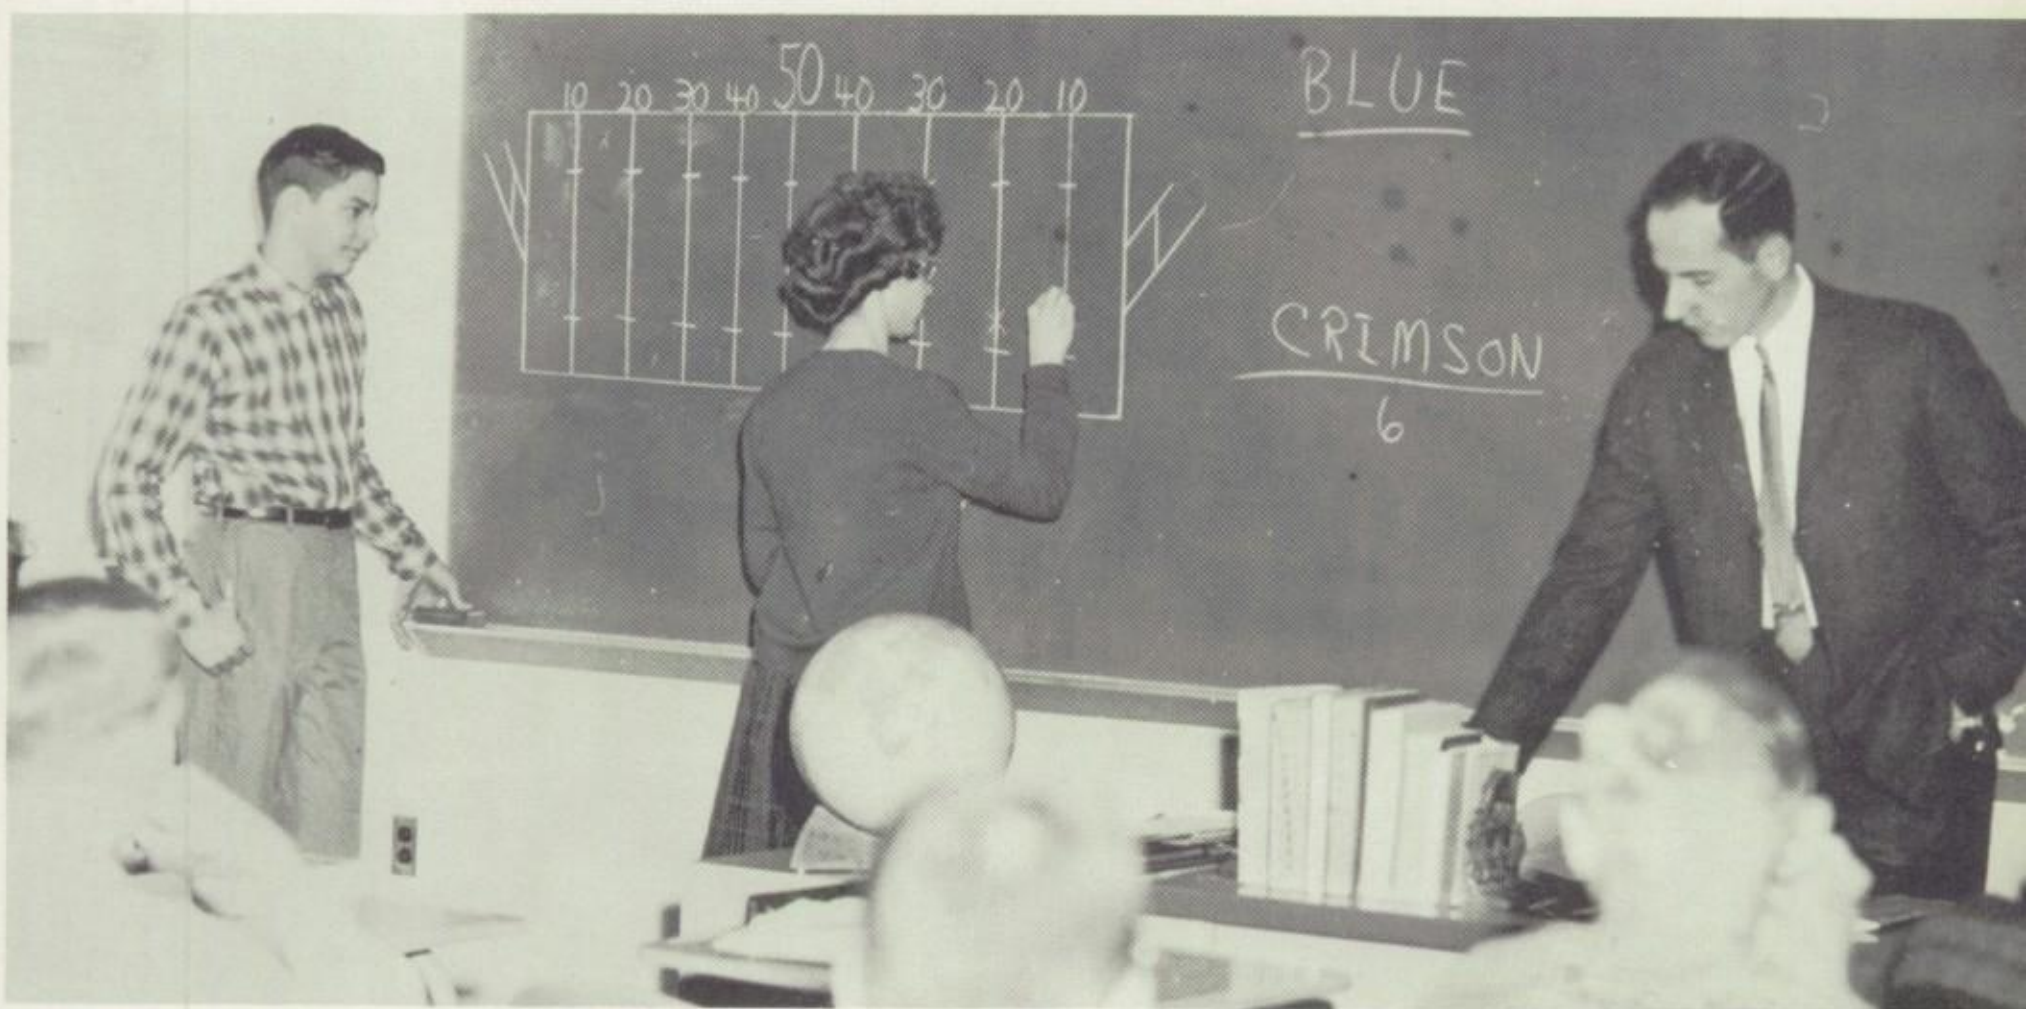

Mr. Harold M. Myers, B.S., M.Ed. . . . American History, Economics . . . Junior Class Adviser . . . For out-of-school enjoyment, Mr. Myers lists woodworking and gardening. During the summer he taught American History in summer school.

Mr. Donald L. Jones, B.S. . . . World History, American History . . . Student Council . . . Mr. Jones spent his summer taking weekend trips through Pennsylvania. For out-of-school activities he enjoys sports and music, while also serving as Assistant Sunday School Superintendent.

Mr. Charles W. Tome, Jr., B.S. M.Ed. . . . American History, World History . . . Senior Adviser, Announcements and Name Cards . . . His many interests include singing, piano, teaching Sunday School, and selling encyclopedias. Last summer he traveled to New York City and the shore.

Teachers—looking for a new way to conduct your reviews for tests? Mr. Donald Jones has developed a technique employing a football game which proves to be both interesting and refreshing for his sophomore World History class, as shown by Larry Dettinger's and Jeanne Loyer's faces.

The Math Department Provides

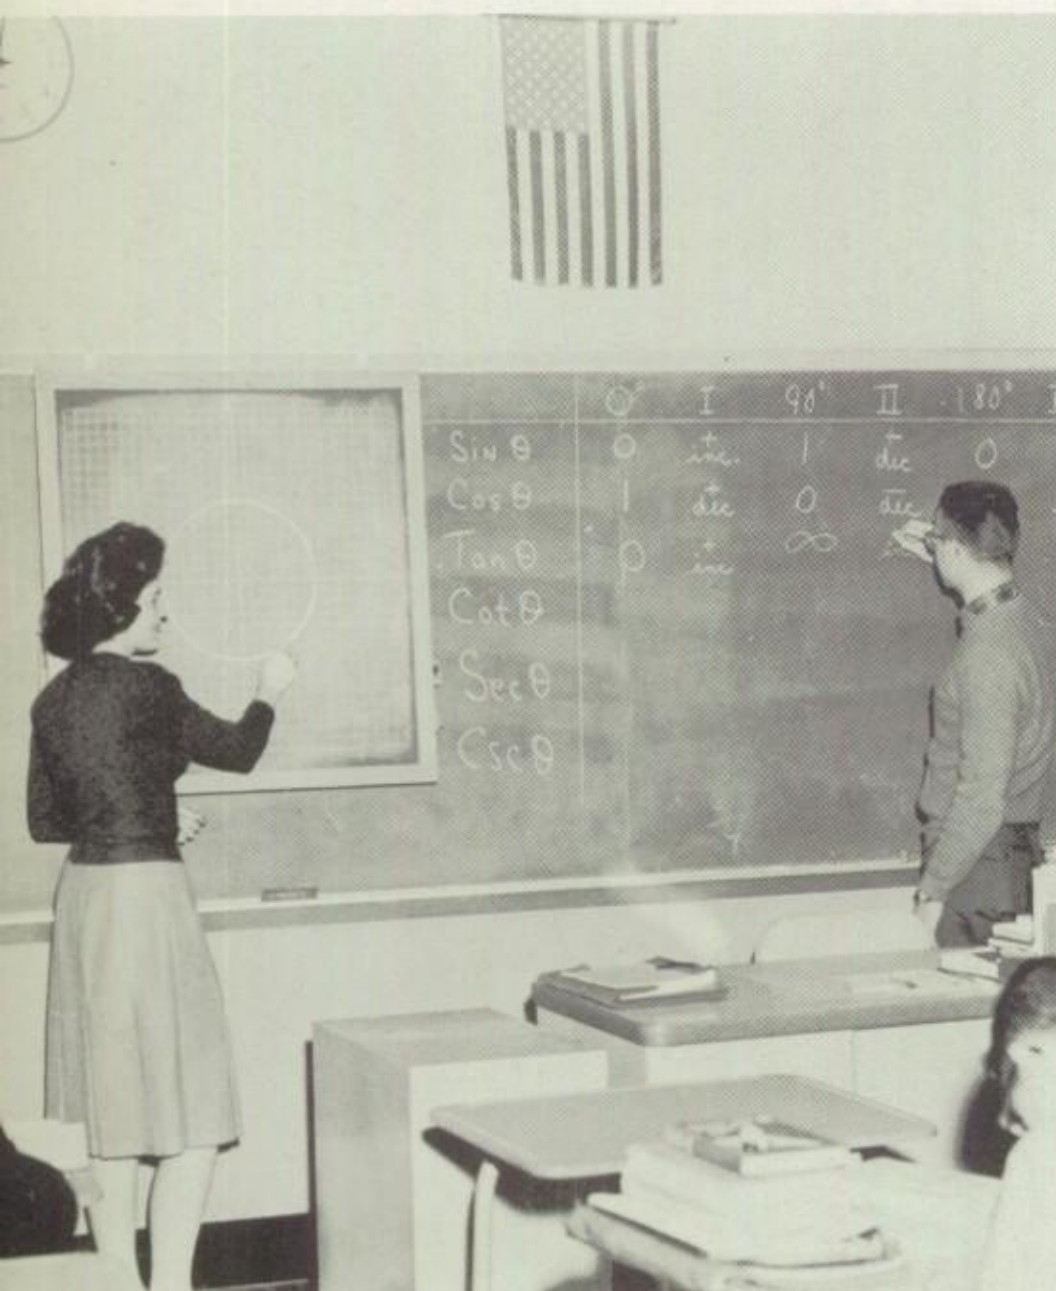

Mr. J. Robert Stover, B.S. . . . Algebra I, Algebra II, Trigonometry, Advanced Algebra . . . Tickets . . . Last summer Mr. Stover took several short trips, including one to Williamsburg and another to Niagara Falls.

Miss Betty Ann Lord, B.S. . . . Basic Mathematics, English I and II . . . Miss Lord's hobbies include reading and sewing. Last summer she attended the last session of summer school at Millersville State College.

Mr. Hugh Miller, B.S. . . . Shop Mathematics, Basic Mathematics, World History, German I . . . In his community, Mr. Miller is a church official and a committee member of a scout troop.

Eenie, meenie, minie, moe. Wonder where the circle's going to go? You'd better watch to be sure, Carolyn Markel, because Doug Meads is waiting for the correct answer. Mr. Stover's peg board always proves interesting to his Trig students.

"Sets" and "correspondence" are concepts being introduced to a few advanced math students this year under the direction of Mr. Raina and Mr. Stover, while "program learning," which requires little aid from the teacher, is being used by a few LIONS in both plane geometry and calculus. This method enables the student to work at his own pace and cover more material than is possible with group instruction. These techniques and concepts are not being stressed by the department, for they are merely experimental. An effective program would require their introduction in the grades.

Students with Food for Thought

Mr. Gopi Raina, B.A., M.A., L.T., M.Ed. . . . Mr. Raina received his education in Kashmir and various universities in India, a summer institute at Fayetteville, and the University of Arkansas . . . His interests include music, chess, reading, traveling, and hiking.

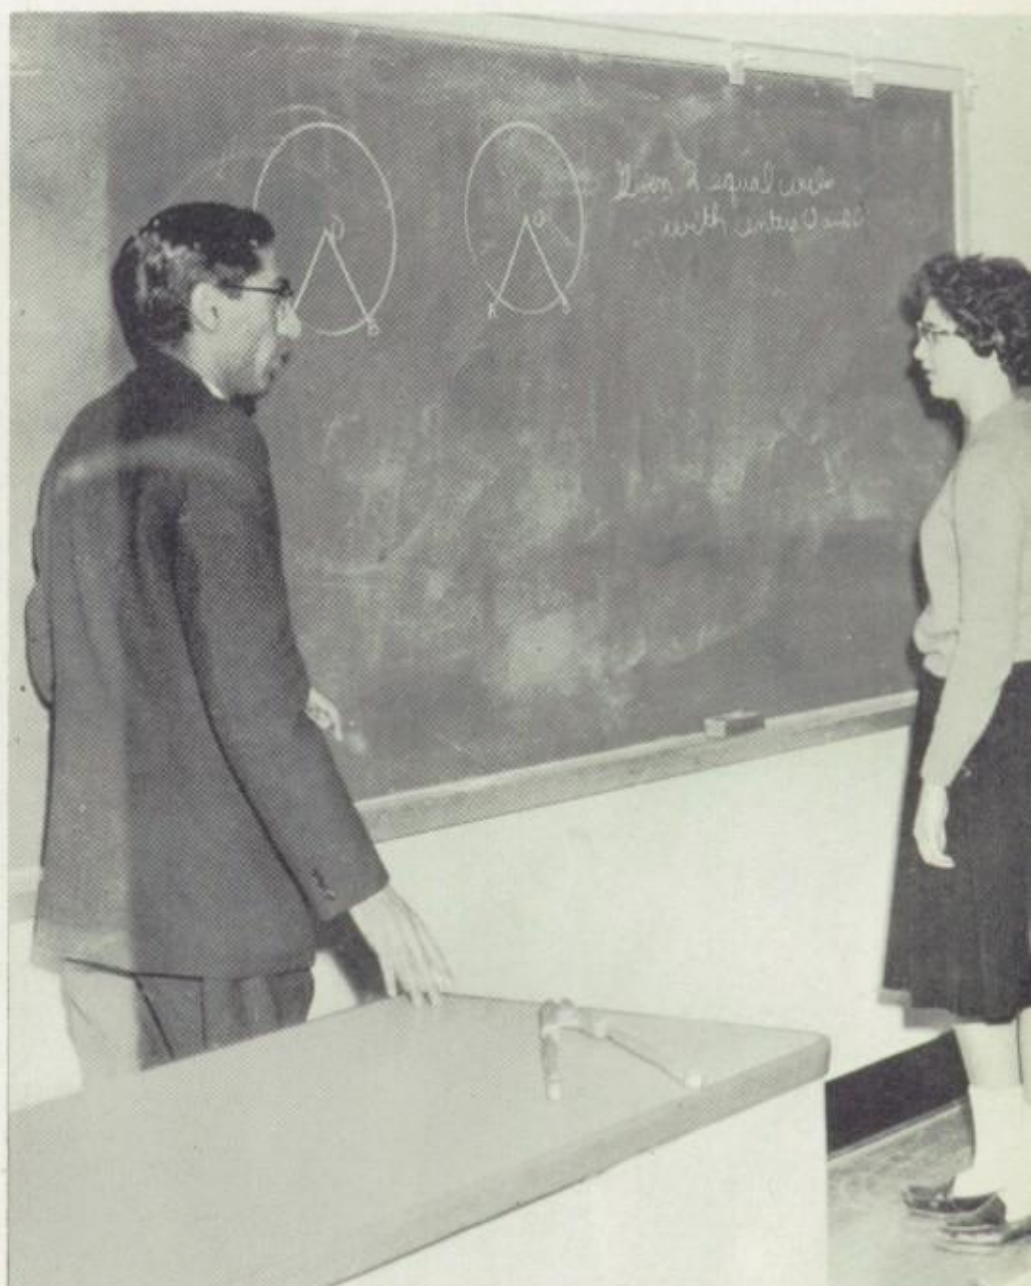

Mr. F. E. Miller, B.S., M.Ed. . . . Algebra I and II . . . During the academic year of 1961-62 and the summer of 1962 he attended Arizona State University near Phoenix.

Mr. Robert Eveler, B.A. . . . Consumers Mathematics, Algebra I and Basic Mathematics . . . Freshman Football . . . Mr. Eveler's hobbies include sports of all kinds, but hunting and trapping rate foremost.

It looks as though Nancy Ziegler is puzzled by a geometry problem and needs the assistance of Mr. Raina, our exchange teacher from India.

Those not pursuing college prep math are offered a quartet of general courses. Consumer math teaches the student how to buy economically (a course needed by many!); while business arithmetic delves into such areas as interest calculation. The shop math course is, as the name suggests, an introduction to math used in the shop, and last comes basic math, which reviews arithmetic, our "every-day math." Yes, not only future mathematicians, but also future housewives and salesmen receive an appropriate and adequate math background at Red Lion!

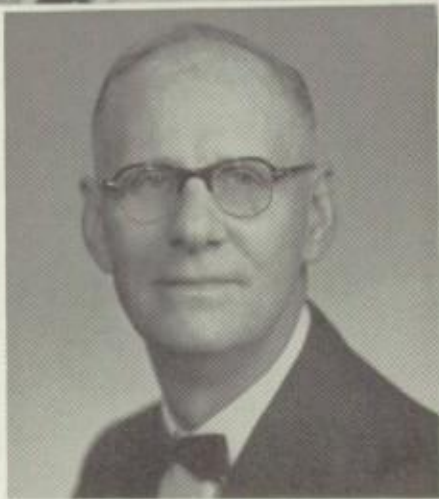

Future Von Brauns Invade Science

John R. Beckley

Mr. J. R. Beckley, B.A. . . . Biology, Life Science . . . Mr. Beckley's hobbies include hunting and fishing. Last summer he attended the University of Maryland.

Mr. Daniel E. Myers, B.A., M.A. . . . General Science, Life Science . . . Science Club . . . Mr. Myers is a Sunday School Superintendent and sings in a male quartet. Last summer he traveled to California and Texas, including visits to Hollywood and two national parks.

Mr. Carrol Posey, B.S. . . . General Biology, Advanced Biology, Life Science . . . Biology Club . . . Mr. Posey enjoys hunting and sports. Last summer he traveled through New England and worked on his Masters at Western Maryland College.

Look at all those cute "little beasties"! Kathryn Downs and Donna Dunlap appear to be studious members of a tenth grade biology class. Biology students frequently have an opportunity to capture a glimpse of many minute animals and plants. Drawings of these specimens must also be produced by each member of the class.

It can be said that science is the key to future living and that all science courses are essential to students, no matter what their vocation. In this department, teachers calculate to bring to students new and up-to-date information on their ever-changing field. Biology offers courses pertaining to present-day environments as well as a complete study of all organic and inorganic substances, including dissection of various animals (Advanced Biology dissected a cat!) General Science uses films, discussions, and demonstrations to give students a background in everyday science, while Consumer Service provides a basic background.

Labs with Inquiring Minds

Mr. Robert Hardy, B.S. . . . General Science . . . Yearbook, Photography Club . . . His summer activities included study towards his Masters Degree at Indiana University and cross-country travel over the new Trans-Canadian Highway to visit the World's Fair.

Mr. Russell R. Urey, B.S. . . . General Science, Consumer Science . . . Assistant Football Coach . . . Some of his interests include sports and hunting. Last summer he participated in a program for the revision of high school chemistry textbooks.

Mr. Freeland Shaffer, B.S., M.S. . . . Chemistry, Physics . . . Electronics and reading serve as his hobbies. Last summer Mr. Shaffer spent eight weeks in original scientific research in chemical spectroscopy at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Do you think it will demolish the school? Actually, it won't. Greg Grim, Diane Markey, and Judy Brown are simply performing a chemistry experiment with the use of distillation apparatus. Each week chemistry students risk their lives when they get a double period to work in the laboratory with chemicals and expensive glass equipment.

Study and hard work are the slogans of physics and chemistry students, who learn subjects made fascinating and easy to understand. This year students have become "guinea pigs." New experiments are conducted by the students, who are allowed to criticize constructively so that all future experimenters may benefit from their suggestions. Each student must select and develop his own project to be displayed in March at Science Night for the benefit of the public. For students who plan to go on to college and for some who do not, physics and chemistry are essential fields of study.

Complete Educational Opportunities

Mr. Theodore Sheckart, B.S., M.Ed. . . . Guidance Counselor . . . National Honor Society . . . With hobbies of hunting and fishing, Mr. Sheckart's summer activities included work at a church camp.

Mrs. Edna Sheckart, B.S., M.Ed. . . . Guidance Counselor . . . Future Teachers . . . Mrs. Sheckart's hobbies include reading, fishing, and hunting. She is also interested in church work, having served this summer as Associate Director at Camp Nawakwa.

Mrs. Marcia Miller, B.S. . . . Librarian . . . Library Club . . . In addition to her obvious liking for books and reading, Mrs. Miller enjoys sewing and traveling, and is active in the Christian Business and Professional Women's Club.

Marcia Y. Miller

Mrs. Nalda Tschop, secretary to Mrs. Miller, the librarian, performs such stenographic duties as the preparation of books for shelves and the recording of all materials entering the library.

Stocked with books and papers of all kinds from the latest fiction to encyclopedias, and brightened by bulletin board displays to stimulate reading interest, the library gives the student an opportunity to discover books, thus broadening his world. Although this room provides reference material useful for class assignments, it is sometimes just a place to relax and read a favorite magazine. The guidance department, working closely with students, parents, and teachers, helps the student determine his course of study as well as his college or job. But no matter how much help is given, the final decision rests with the student.

from Guidance to the Fine Arts

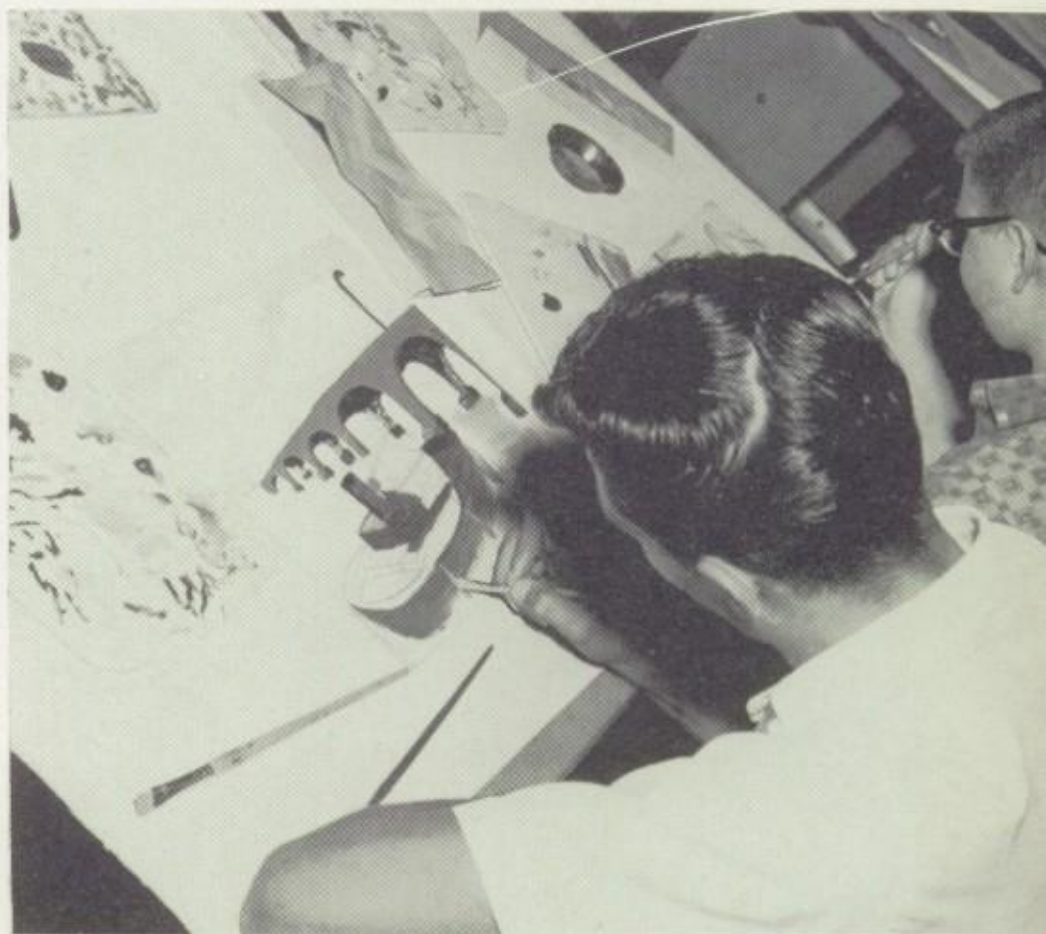

Miss Linda Nonemaker, B.S. . . . French I, II, III . . . Last summer Miss Nonemaker took time out from her role as Sunday School Superintendent to attend Middlebury College, Vermont, and to take an auto trip around Lake Champlain.

Mr. Joseph W. Barclay, B.S. . . . Art . . . Art Club, Prom, Jr. and Sr. Play decorations . . . In addition to painting, Mr. Barclay enjoys swimming, hunting, and fishing.

"Quiet! Artists at work." Brushes and paint are essential equipment to diligent Jere Golden and Barry Morningstar, who apply their talent in Advanced Art class.

To prove the theory that practically anything that can be done in English can be done in Latin, Miss Clevenger's classes write compositions, and present skits . . . all in Latin! A new set of records, "Latin Classics," is intended to bring new zest to material, while a monthly article in the LEONID brings a little Latin to all young LIONS. Finally, students will receive a strong dose of mythology. Turning to a more modern language, French, we find that students are conversing more than ever, for teachers have employed tape recorders and the record player to master the audio-lingual approach to language learning.

Mr. George A. Ward, B.S., M.Ed. . . . Instrumental Music, Music Supervision . . . Band, Orchestra, Dance Band, Boys' Chorus, Ensembles . . . Mr. Ward is kept quite busy directing the York City Band.

Mrs. Melanie Stover, B.A. . . . French I . . . '64 Lion . . . Mrs. Stover's hobbies are reading, ice skating, and collecting dolls from foreign countries. Her summer activities included a few short trips and six weeks at summer school.

Alert Minds and Quick Responses . . .

Mr. Jay P. Yinger, B.S. . . . Business Math, Retail Selling, Economic Geography, Rapid Calculation . . . Audio-Visual Education Club . . . Mr. Yinger likes to hunt and fish, and, enjoying travel, visited Canada and Florida this summer, working for the York Drilling Company between trips.

Mr. Gordon A. Stamets, B.S., M.Ed. . . . Personal and Commercial Typing, Shorthand I, II . . . A Scoutmaster for a local troop, Mr. Stamets also enjoys music, gardening, and woodworking. Last summer he completed the requirements for his Masters of Education.

Mrs. Aleta S. Ehrhart, B.S. . . . Office Practice, Typing, Transcription, General Business . . . Tri-Hi-Y . . . Mrs. Ehrhart is Treasurer of her church and enjoys knitting, crocheting and collecting goblets. Her summer was highlighted with a trip to the White Mountains and Bar Harbor, Maine.

These members of our future business world are busy preparing for their professions. Holly Fauth is using the comptometer dictation machine; Vicki McCleary, the dictaphone machine; and Janet Runkle is stenciling.

The skill subjects of typing, shorthand, and transcription prepare the business-inclined student to step confidently into the secretarial or clerical field. Typists spend countless hours at one of the seventy manual or six electric typewriters with which classrooms are equipped. To improve rhythm, classes sometimes accompany an orchestral recording. Shorthand students study the Gregg system, and a class in Office Practice creates the atmosphere and conditions of the business office. With or without further training, graduating students find employment in the immediate area, or wherever Civil Service openings occur.

Basic Requirements for Commercial Students

Miss Jeanette Espenshade, B.S. . . . Bookkeeping, General Business, Typing . . . Prom, Football Programs . . . She enjoys being a Red Cross staff aid at both Pleasant Acres and Memorial Hospital, and is a member of the Board of Directors of the United Fund.

Mr. William E. Nyer, B.S. . . . Oral English, English IV, Typing . . . Mr. Nyer's many hobbies range from fishing and horseback riding to collecting antiques and firearms.

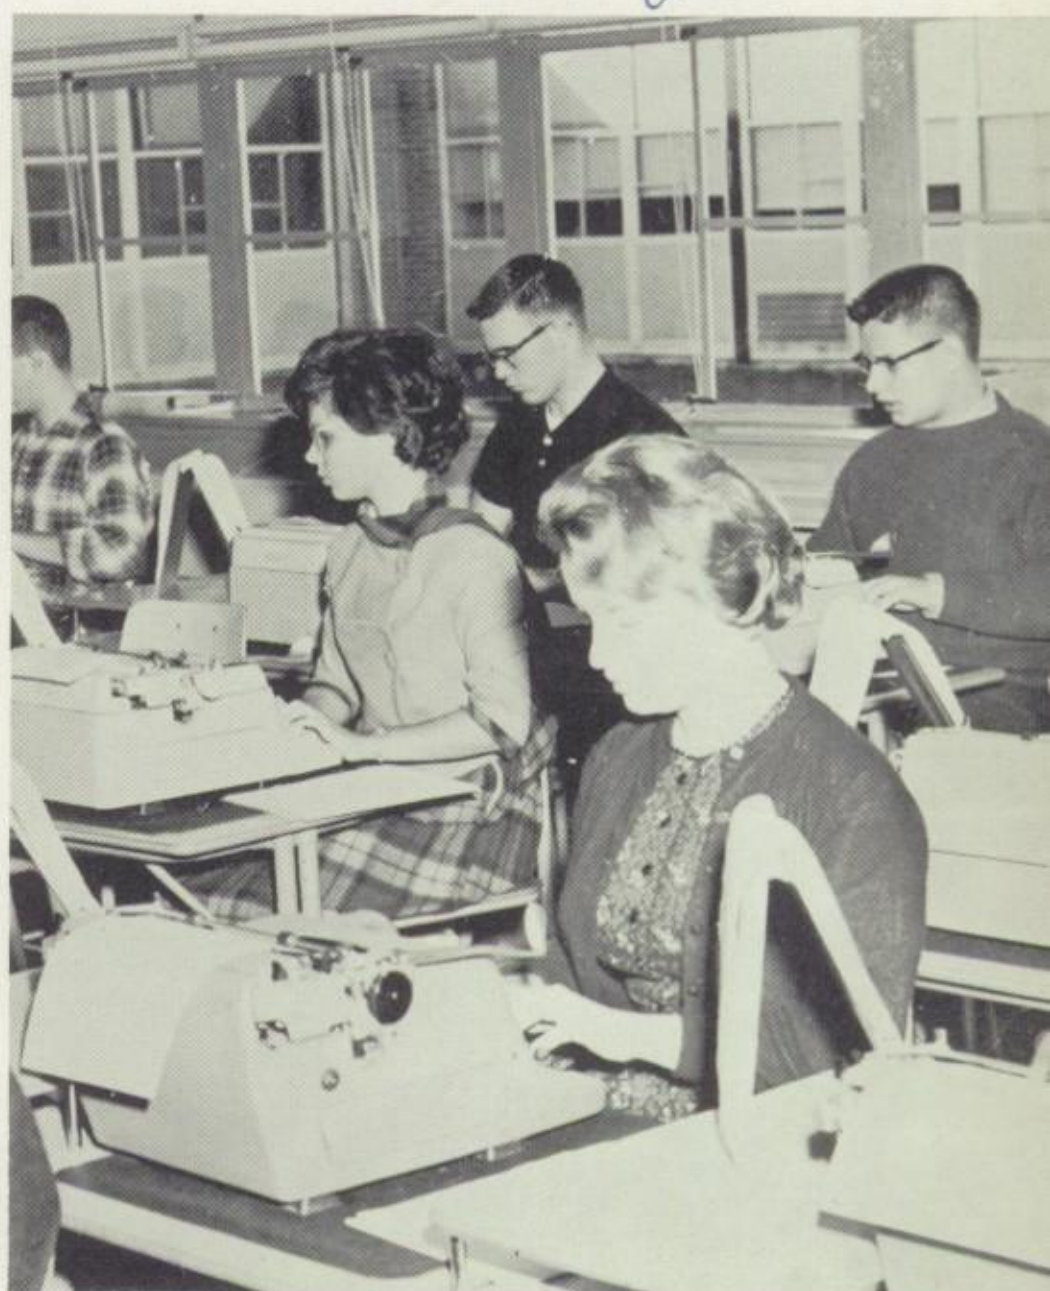

Mr. Willard C. Snyder, B.S. . . . Business Arithmetic, Typing . . . A York Sunday School teacher, who enjoys anything mechanical. He enjoys music and traveling, and last summer highlighted a trip to Washington, D. C. with a view of the U. S. Senate.

Willard C. Snyder

Now, Yvette Maneval, that's cheating. You're not supposed to look at those keys when you type! Mary Lou Prall, Dave Ziegler and Ronald Saylor have learned what you have not in Personal Typing class. But cheer up, for all is not lost. You'll at least have the right letters!

To arm the business student with practical knowledge, the Commercial Department provides courses in General Business, Business Mathematics, Salesmanship, Rapid Calculation, Economic Geography and Bookkeeping. General Business acquaints students with the ordinary financial problems of adulthood: taxes, installment buying, banking, and insurance. Here visual aids in the form of insurance policies and banking, social security and income tax forms make classroom problems real. Bookkeeping classes progress from familiarity with accounting practices of single proprietorships to partnership and corporation accounting.

Future Homemakers, Industrialists and

Mrs. Florence G. Uhler, B.S. . . . Home Economics . . . F. H. A. . . . Mrs. Uhler keeps very busy during the year working on the Board of the York County Home Economics Association and many workshops.

Mr. John G. Myers, B.S., M.Ed. . . . Vocational Agriculture . . . Future Farmers of America . . . Mr. Myers spent the summer providing on-the-farm instruction for agricultural students. He also enjoys fishing and training his English setter for hunting.

Miss Phyllis A. Moberly, B.S. . . . Junior and Senior High School Home Economics . . . Miss Moberly enjoys everything from horseback riding to meeting people. Last summer she met U. S. Bonds, Fats Domino, and other interesting singers.

Well, what have we here? It looks as though . . . yes, it is . . . Nan McGuigan is literally butchering another piece of material in the process of making a skirt! Really, though, the girls in Home Ec learn the "fine arts" of good sewing and, especially, cutting.

Since the Home Ec and Ag Departments are the last step in education for many students, these must be practical subjects. While specializing in cooking and sewing (Dr. Kildare blouses were the fad this year), Home Ec also includes decorating and styling, allowing advanced homemakers a chance to try their talents at dress—or even prom gown—design. The boys in the Ag Department learn the latest techniques in farming and maintenance of equipment. They constructed this year, for their farming program, visual aids called "Project Exhibits." To develop skill in conveying opinions, Ag students must give a convincing speech on an agricultural subject.

Farmers Complete a Variety of Projects

Mr. Kenneth Bachman, B.S. . . . Industrial Arts, Woodworking . . . Stage Crew . . . Among Mr. Bachman's favorite activities are tennis and camping. He also enjoys traveling during the summer.

Mr. Ward S. Yorks, B.S., M.Ed. . . . Graphic Arts, Drawing . . . School Printing . . . Last summer Mr. Yorks traveled to the Western states and visited the World's Fair.

Mr. Lowell R. Withers, B.S. . . . Industrial Arts, Metal, Mechanical Drawing . . . Stage Crew, Faculty Auditorium Manager . . . Hunting, fishing, and making archery tackle occupy Mr. Withers' free time. Last summer he spent six weeks touring Europe.

Does it really matter what it is, just as long as it works? These two Industrial Arts students, Keith Harrold and Charles Knokey, don't look too worried, but beware of Mr. Yorks if the silk screening doesn't turn out!

In their "C" wing establishment, students complete Industrial Arts projects with the aid of their instructors. Freshman boys spend time working on elementary bookbinding, layout, sheet metal, and cold iron projects. In grades ten, eleven, and twelve, this subject is an elective, and in twelfth year, boys are taught the operation of all tools and machinery in addition to architectural drawing and advanced letter and offset printing. A special mechanical drawing course offered as an elective to seniors has also attracted the weaker sex to this department.

Those Who Develop Hardy Young

Mr. Ronald Fitzkee, M.Ed. . . . Physical Education, Health . . . Varsity Club, Tumbling Club, Football, Baseball . . . He spent his summer operating a trampoline center and playing golf, with one week of August at Camp Echo Trail, preparing the football team for the coming season.

Mr. Charles R. Nitchkey, M.Ed. . . . Physical Education, Health . . . Director of Athletics, Golf . . . Treasurer of Youth Center, P.I.A.A., Y.C.I.A.A. . . . Last summer Mr. Nitchkey pursued his favorite hobby, studying the Civil War. He visited Williamsburg, Manassas, and Richmond.

Mr. Donald J. Johnson, B.S. . . . Driver Education . . . A newcomer to our building, although not to Red Lion, Mr. Johnson finds that heading his household takes much of his spare time, but he still manages to get in some golf. Over the summer he managed the Windsor Playground.

Donald Johnson

There is no doubt who is going to get that ball, is there, Rodney Grim? Donald Eaton, Larry Rost, Carson Larkin and Joe Lane are ready and waiting—just in case—as Rodney attempts to score two points in one of the highly competitive gym class games.

In large gym classes this year, Mr. Fitzkee and Mr. Nitchkey combined to form teams, stressing team importance and enabling the teaching of specialties. Also, in classes where upperclassmen were grouped with freshmen and sophomores, a rotation of seniors was used in a leader system. These leaders were assigned a group and aided in instructing gym procedure and equipment use. A very practical course, Driver Education, is gaining in popularity every year. This semester course offers driving experience to many young LIONS, and if it isn't Mr. Johnson's charm that attracts many students, perhaps it is the new car which is used every year.

LIONS with Healthy Bodies

Mrs. Ernestine M. J. Smith, B.A. . . . Health, Physical Education . . . Cheerleaders, Majorettes, Color Guard, Dancing Club . . . With most of her time devoted to her family and her "girls," she still finds time to chase a little white ball in pursuit of her favorite sport, golf.

Mrs. Patsy Rexroth, R.N. . . . School Nurse . . . Future Nurse's Club . . . Mrs. Rexroth attended Millersville State College this summer. "Pat," when not busy with her family, enjoys football games, reading, and telephoning—her favorite pastime!

Miss Nancy Ann Mitchell, B.S. . . . Physical Education . . . G.A.A. . . . Miss Mitchell finds time when not working with G.A.A. to enjoy bowling and swimming. She is also quite a whiz at bridge!

Nancy Mitchell

Flaps up, wheels down, and we're ready for take off! This girls' gym class of underclassmen led by Miss Mitchell isn't really going to fly. It's just warming up with a coordination exercise.

High-strung students find relaxation from the tension of study in Red Lion's program of physical education. The girls enjoy workouts on the gym apparatus, such sports as bowling, field hockey, and basketball, and unusual exercises (including those done to the record "Chicken Fat") which occasionally send some future Debbie Drakes to the health suite with twisted muscles. There our competent and understanding nurse tends everything from bad nerves to broken bones, as well as administering audio-visual examinations. Although it may sometimes seem as though these two departments work hand in hand, they are actually quite independent of each other!

Cooks and Janitors Are

The cafeteria staff finds time to pose for a picture after the noon rush: Mrs. Alma Smith, Mrs. Sara Grove, Mrs. Grace Smith, and Mrs. Ida Stabley.

The other half of the cafeteria staff: Mrs. Elizabeth Smith (manager), Mrs. Viola Schmuck, Mrs. Betty Barshinger and Mrs. Ida Fauth—also finds a rare moment to relax.

A typical cafeteria scene from 11:07 A.M. until 1:30 P.M. Students find food a welcome sight whether it be from home or from the school's cafeteria. Lunch time, a welcome relief from classroom activities, provides an opportunity to engage in friendly conversations.

Always on the Go

Maintenance problems usually backtrack to these janitors, for trouble-shooting seems to be their calling. They are: Charles Blouse, Wiley Flinchbaugh and Marvin Overmiller.

These amiable persons are not thieves in the night, nor even intruders, but two of our janitors, Cletus Mitzel and Mrs. Theresa Waltemyer.

At midnoon, when hunger pangs strike students and faculty alike, Red Lion's efficient cafeteria staff prepares meals with an eye to both nutrition and appetites. In spite of the jokes and complaining usually attached to a cafeteria, the work of the cooks is greatly appreciated. In addition, we must give them credit for the efficiency with which they handle the three bustling lunch shifts. Unsung heroes of our school, the maintenance crew, keep the building in top condition inside and out, and it goes without saying that they deserve both our recognition and thanks for their hard work in performing a job which is never done.

Proudly displaying the first-place trophy won at the cheerleading contest at York Catholic are freshman cheerleaders Debbie McGuigan, Jinny Lou Frey, Tina Sheffer, Jane Seitz, Sue Godfrey and Darlene Swords.

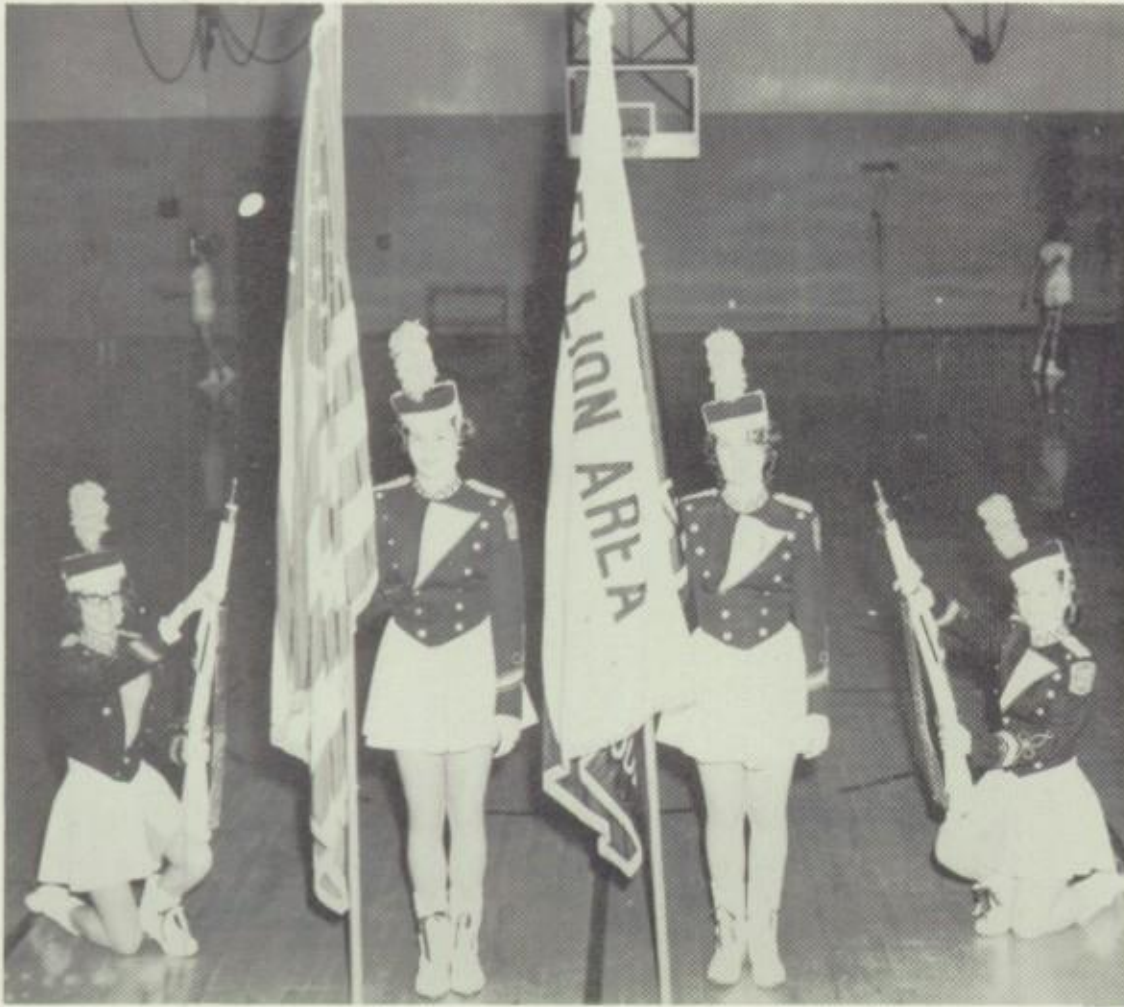

Anyone attending a Jayvee sport has seen these girls faithfully cheering their team on to victory. The Jayvee cheerleading squad: Carolyn Stearn, Jill Toomey, Delores Kline, Joyce Markel and Barbara Jackson.

V is for Varsity—in this case, Varsity cheerleaders. The trophy verifies our school pride in Sandy Markey, Beverly Blouse, Patty Leach, Cynthia Garner, Karen Poff (captain), Deanna Kline, Joan Ellis, Judy Beth Warner and Lynn Markel.

Our Color Guard, Carol Hoffmaster, Kathy Bonness, Donaleen Murphy and Linda Clark, have a very special job, to guard and carry our country's and our school's flag.

Rain, sleet and snow can't keep a good lion down. Leo, our mighty mascot, welcomes the fans at the games. Is it Sharon?

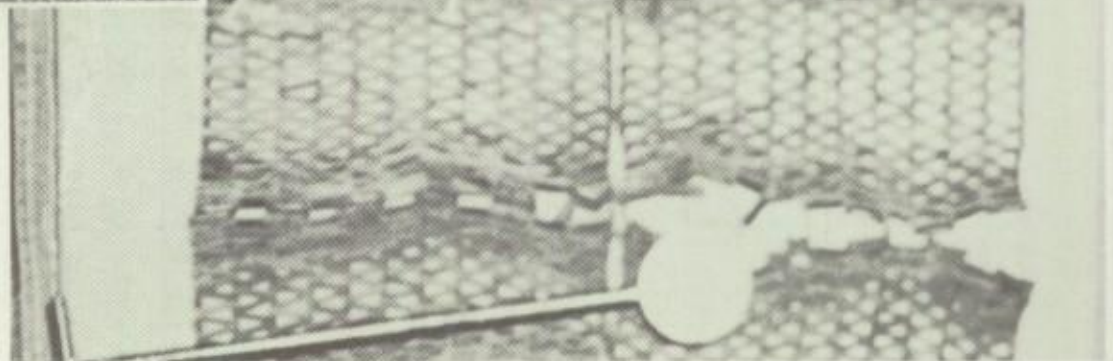

Variety Adds Spice to

Mrs. Smith seems to have hit the jackpot in foretelling Jeanne Loyer's future as she dons a gypsy outfit for the S. C. Carnival.

A dunking machine in the parking lot in front of the school drew attention at the Student Council Carnival held on September 28. Dale Emenheiser, Student Council Vice-president, graces the uncomfortable seat.

At a fall pep assembly, cheerleaders spark enthusiasm for a forthcoming football game. If this routine fails to echo a resounding response from the student body, Karen Poff will resort to competition cheers between classes.

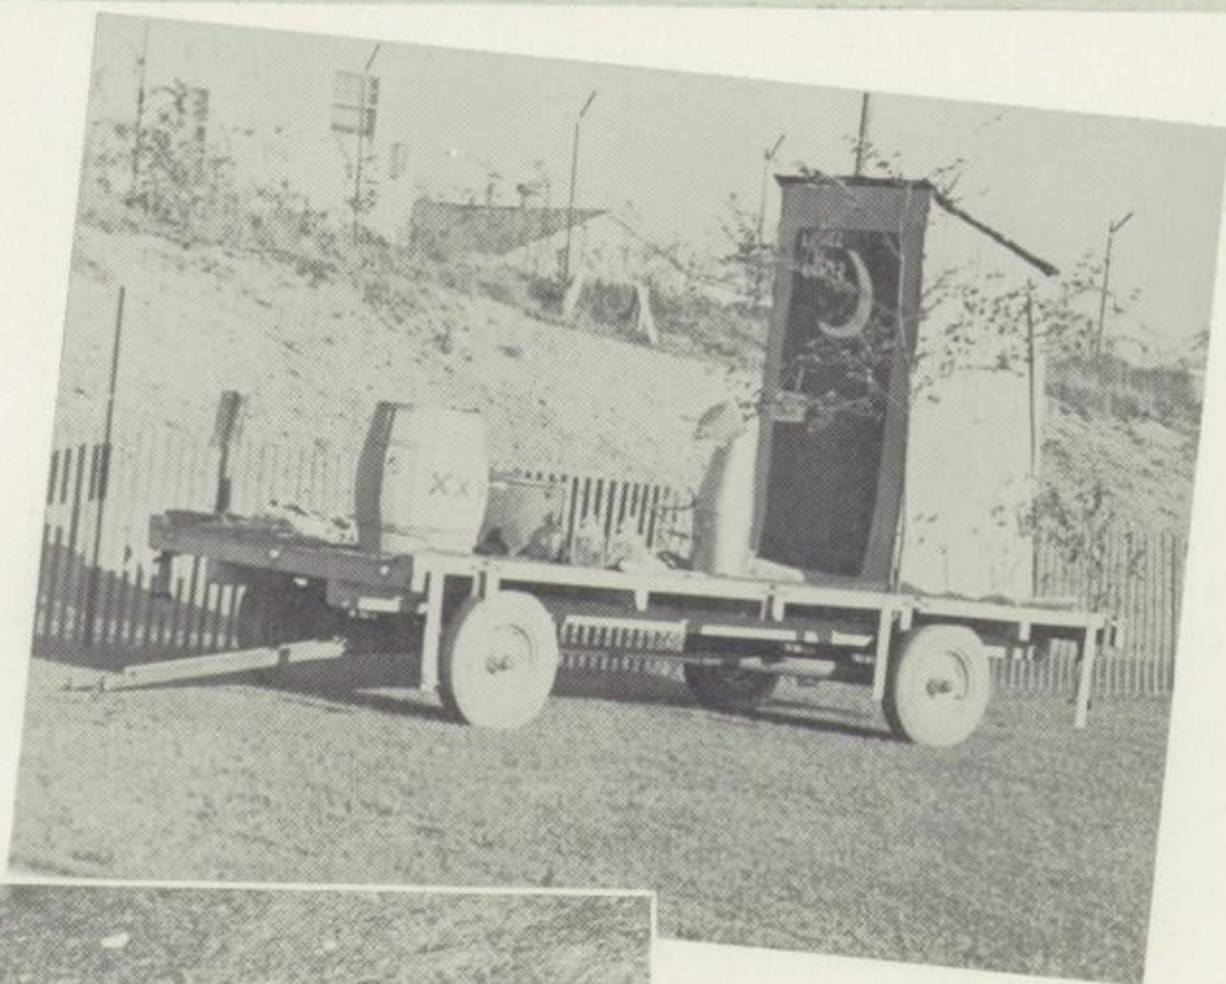

the Pleasure of Football Enthusiasts

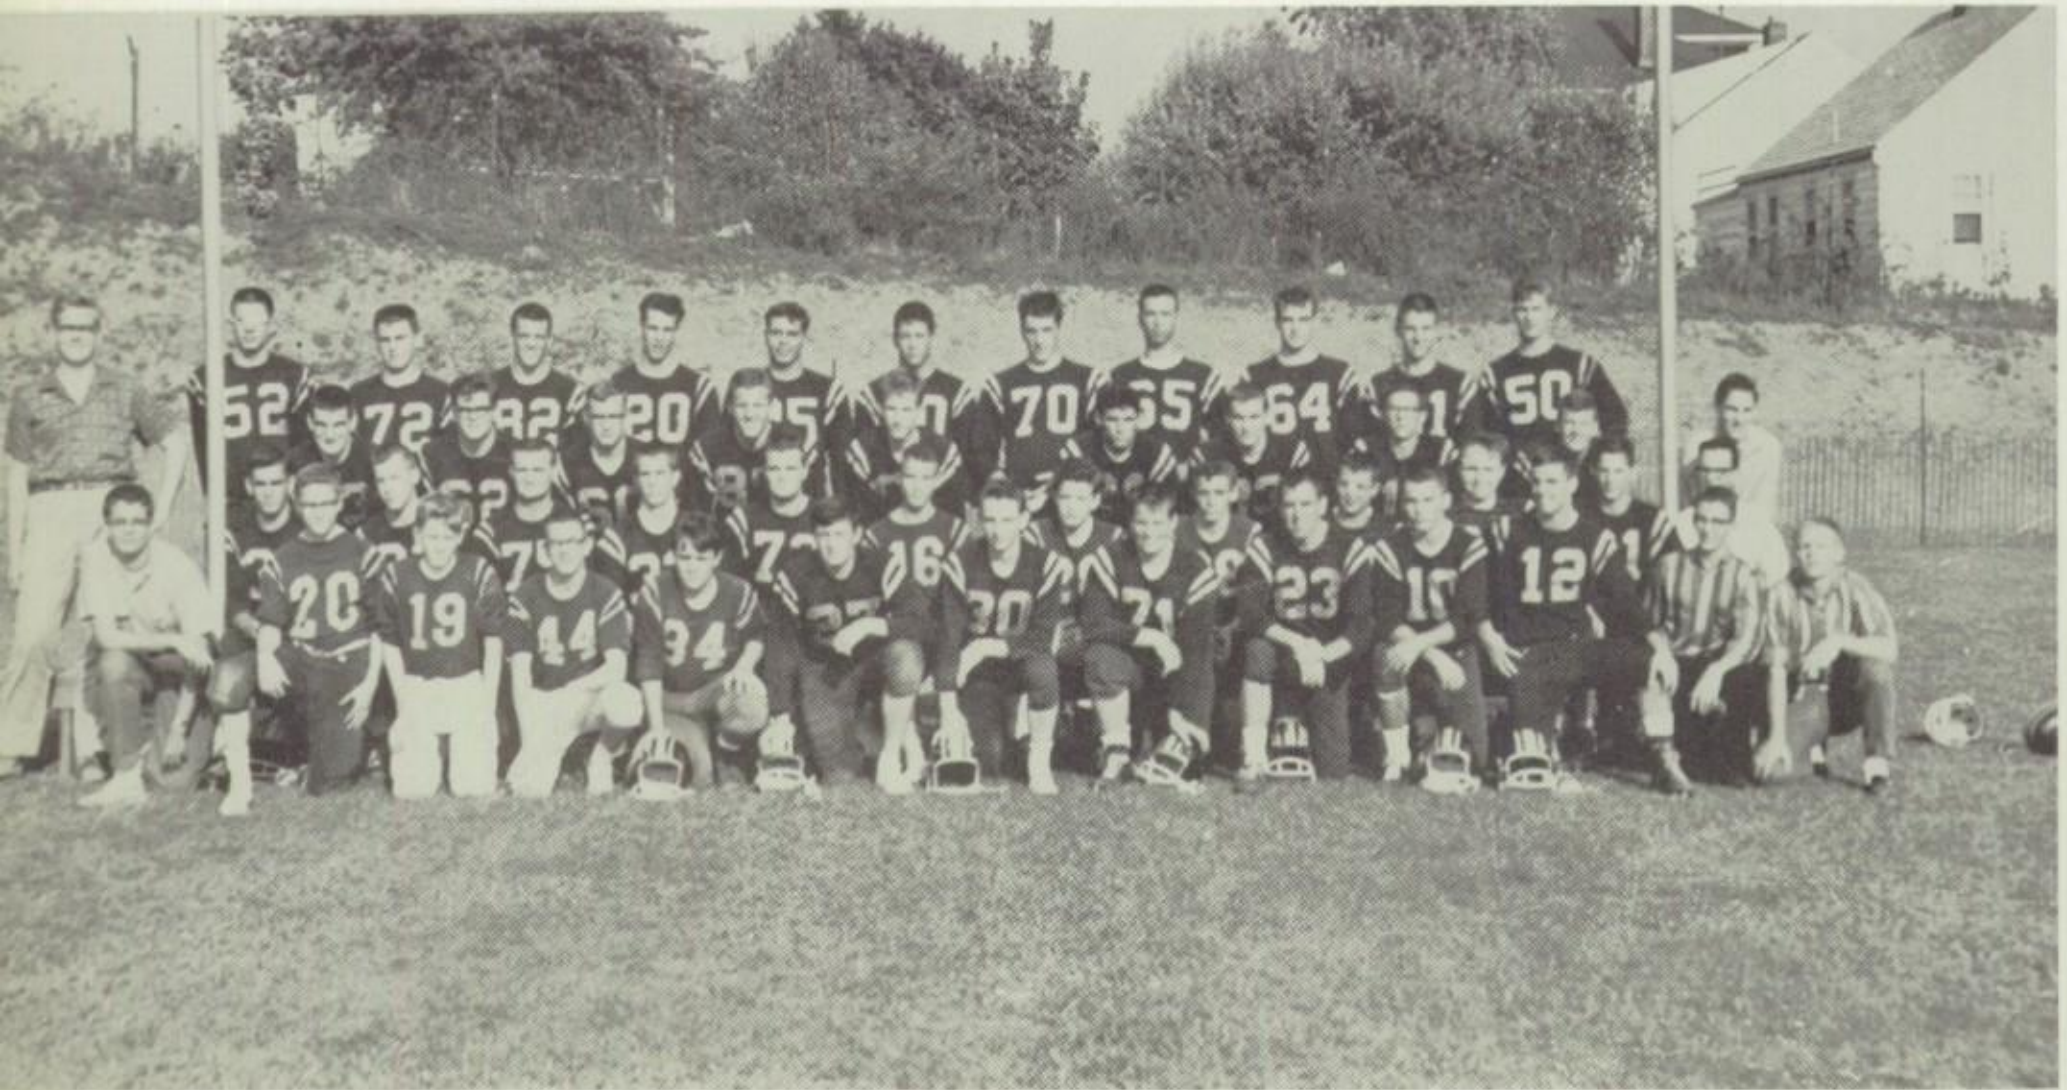

One of the most attractive sights at a football game is the majorettes at half-time. Crowds at the games responded most favorably to drills of our eleven. Especially popular was the routine featuring the twist.

The seniors, having failed to produce a successful float and with only a few days remaining until the pep rally, used their ingenuity to produce the humorous creation shown here partially undecorated and without its human props.

The Junior Class proudly displayed their prize-winning float at the game following the pep rally. The floats always add a touch of airy enthusiasm for Homecoming and they also challenge the classes in good, clean competition.

A fight over a dummy? No, just Don Test practicing fundamentals of blocking while Steve Stern holds the dummy. This action took place while the boys were at camp.

The '62 football season started for our forty-seven LIONS on August 18th with a week of hard work and conditioning at Camp Echo Trail. The team looked very good, for in addition to seventeen seniors who filled all but three positions, five of the boys weighed over two hundred pounds. On the 25th they came home and scrimmaged Central on our field; then it was practice and more practice till September 8th. For the next ten weeks there was plenty of action, and the boys ended with a 5-4-1 record. We might add that next year's team looks very promising also, for the Junior Varsity had a 5-1 record, and the freshman team shared top honors in the junior high set.

Freshman games prove to be exciting, too, as you can see here. Danny Smith carries the ball for extra yardage against West York.

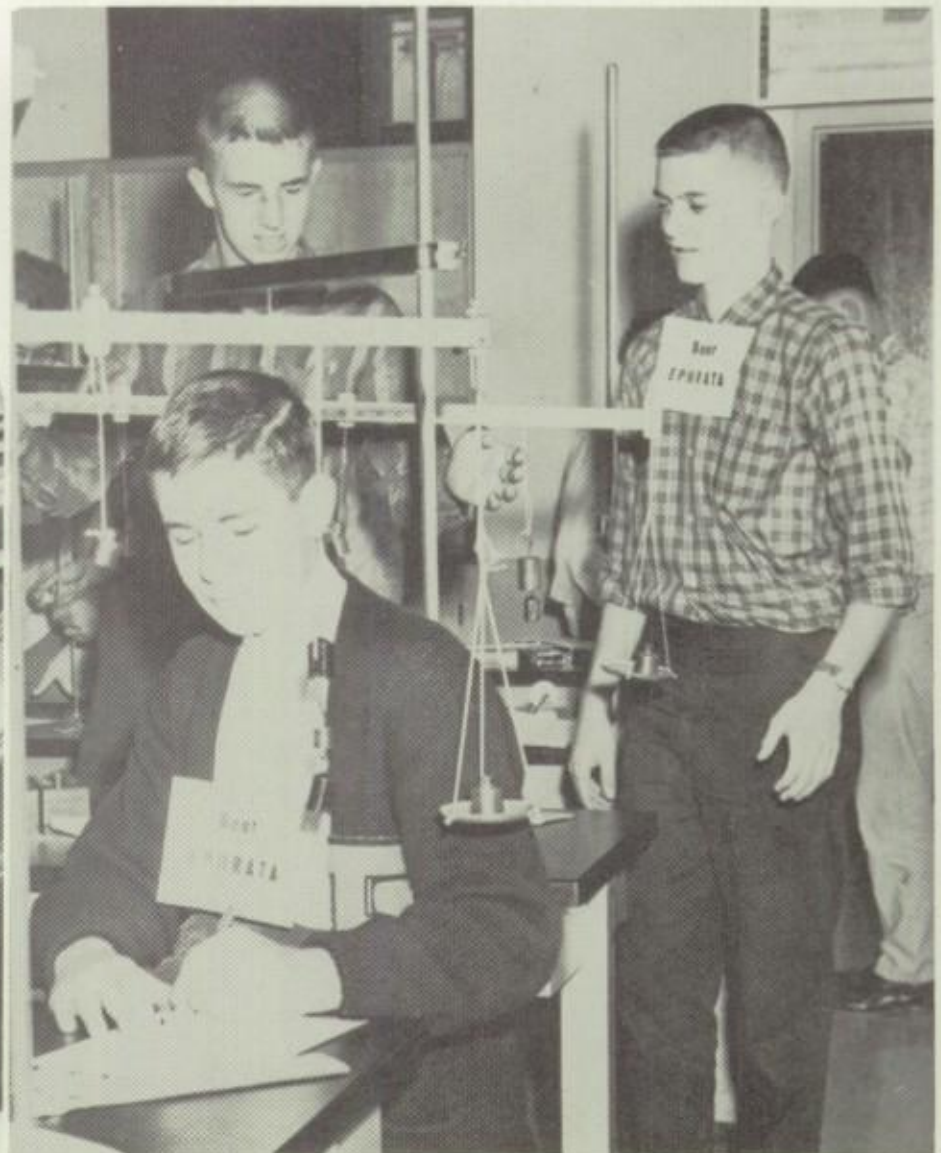

Lions with Zeal and Spirit

Two LION photographers, Greg Grim and Frank Sechrist, take time out from a busy schedule for a pizza. Better hurry back to work, fellows!

"Get down, get set . . . Go!", as our he-man Lions score another touchdown. But wait a minute—ruffles on trousers, handbag in hand—these must be our mischievous cheerleaders!

Three industrious students, Fred Cope, Bill Goad, and Tom Grove, are busy trying to prove the laws of physics. It seems to be a lot of fun.

Cage Team's Victories

Even before football season came to an end, the basketball court was broken in for the '62-'63 season. A large turnout including five lettermen made the outlook very bright for our new Varsity coach, Mr. Shellenberger, and upon the final selection of ten players, the team started its season with several scrimmages both at home and on the road. Before the first league game with D-town, the boys chose Carson Larkin and Dave Ziegler as co-captains, and although the season wasn't a great success in the win column, the team showed tremendous competitive spirit. The J.V.'s under Mr. Snyder and the freshmen under Mr. Rhine had mediocre seasons, but the boys are looking ahead to many better ones, for they too have indomitable spirit.

Jere Golden attempts a difficult shot while Rodney Koons positions himself for any possible rebound against Susquehannock.

This shot won't be blocked, for Dave Ziegler, Co-captain, is really up in the air as he gets two points against Susquehannock.

Students, Faculty and Professionals

Nervous? Keep trying! Maybe it will sound a little better. These students are rehearsing their parts for the talent assembly. Some of them will be selected to display their talents at Dallastown.

With a song in his heart, William Melnychen, of the Metropolitan Opera Company, rendered several selections in a professional assembly, while his accompanist tickled the ivories and played special arrangements.

The flute choir under the direction of Mr. Ward is shown enriching the Christmas assembly with its contributions. It provided a change of pace between the band and the choruses.

Display Talent in Assemblies

The Physical Fitness program must be paying off at last! This is Mr. William March, U. S. Olympic weight-lifter from the York Barbell Corporation, and not one of our own students.

Ray King and Chris Warner liven the talent show with their renditions of musical selections. Their performance included the theme song of the television show, the "Beverly Hillbillies."

Cheating was the topic of discussion in this guidance assembly. Panelists are: Mr. Sheckart, Linda Hess, Dave Keperling, Retta Crowl, Ronald Grim, Mr. Shaffer, Kathy Posey, Tom Galbreath, and Mr. Shellenberger.

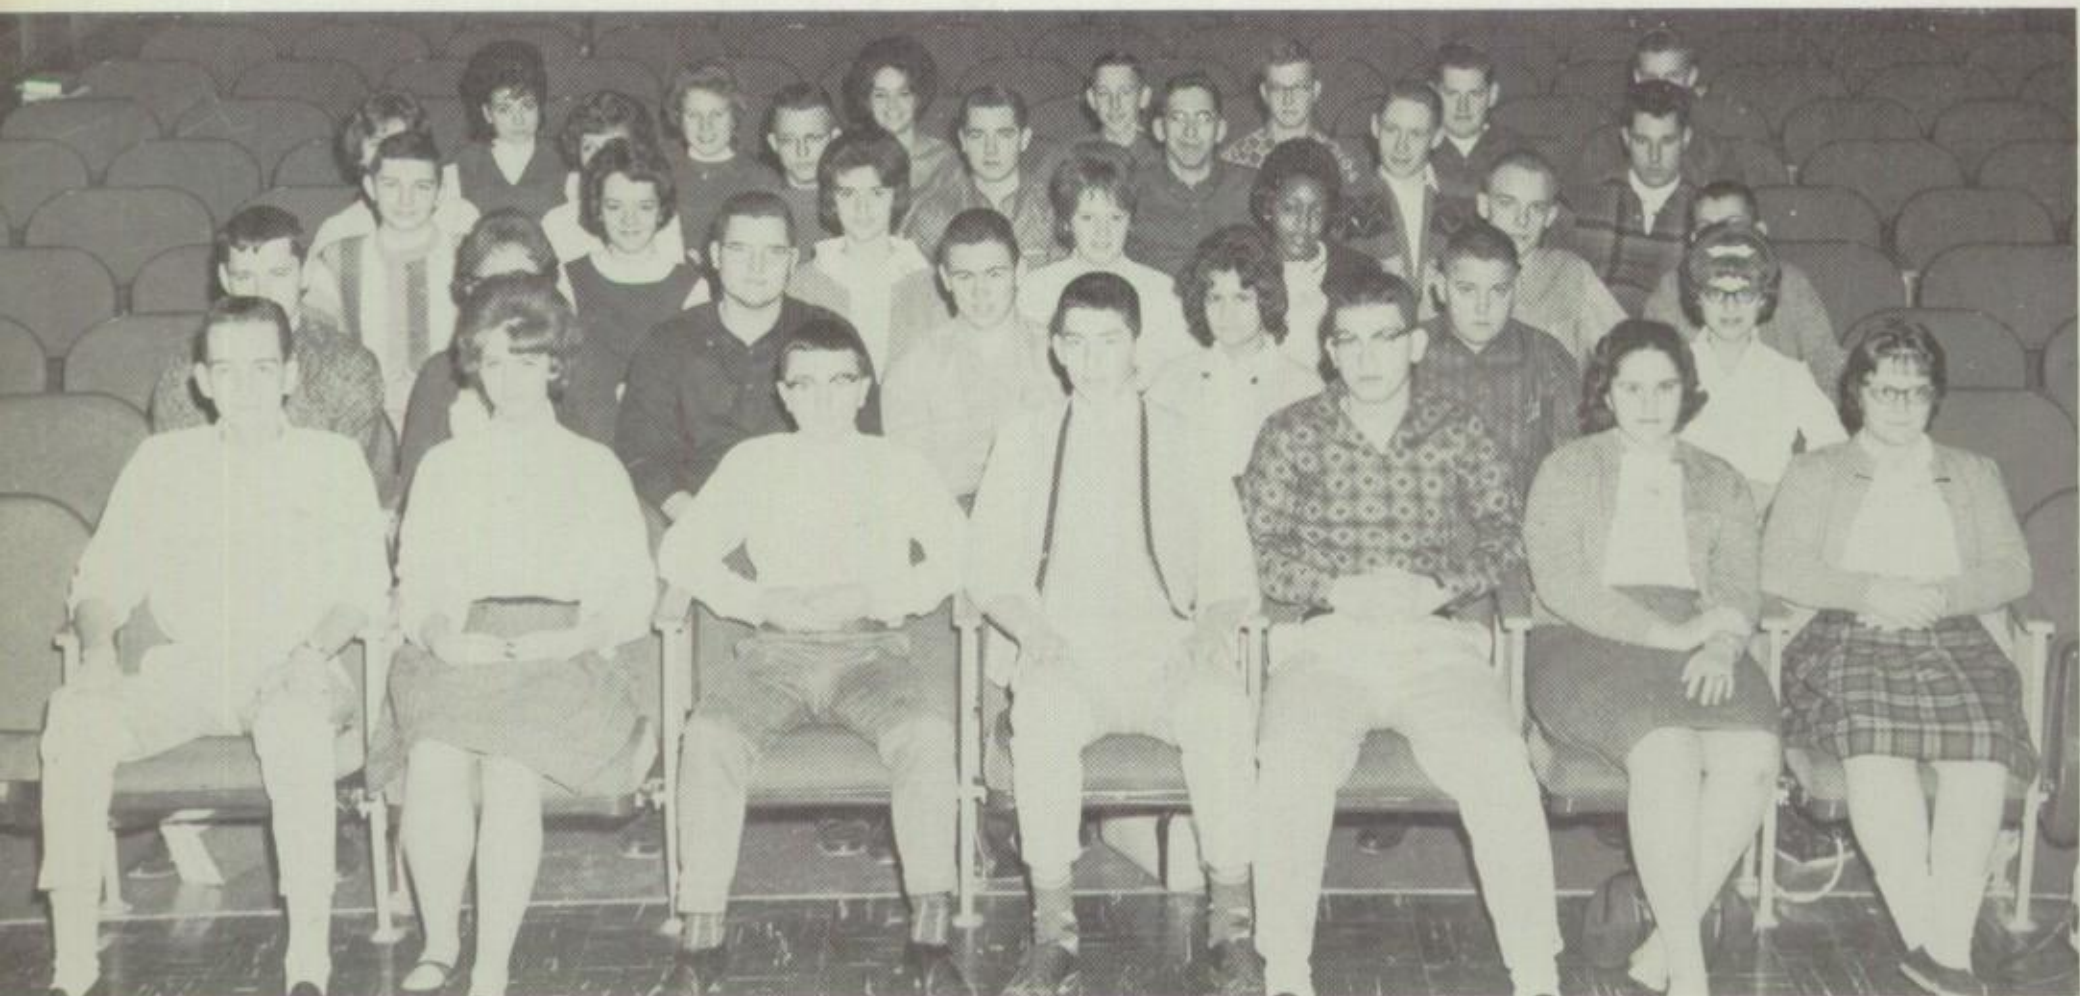

Student Council Officers

In Student Council, representatives meet to discuss problems confronting the students and school, and attempt to increase school spirit by sponsoring activities; this year a carnival and both the Christmas and Valentine's dances. In addition, it conducted an election for Pennsylvania's Governor, and will send the '63-'64 Council President to a summer workshop. The mainspring of this group is the executive committee which proposes new ideas, plans future activities, and processes worthwhile suggestions from the suggestion box. It consists of the Council officers and a student from each class, and alternates Thursday morning sessions with the regular Student Council.

and Delegates Tackle Perennial Problems

Wait a minute, fellows! Could it be? . . . Yes, they're Red Lion's very own solicitors, Jeff Warner and Galen Stump. (Some people would do anything for the Valentine Dance.)

"Sweetheart Saraband" gave our school a new King and Queen, Carson Larkin and Sandy Markey. Dale Emenheiser, Student Council Vice-president, presents the Queen with a heart full of candy, as the Court looks on admiringly.

Ideas, anyone? The Valentine's Dance is the main topic of discussion during the Student Council executive committee meeting. Here they are caught in the act of adding the final touches to "Sweetheart Saraband."

Stage Reminiscences Bring Nostalgic Memories

Sally Smith, student director of the senior play, is caught by the flash of the camera as she introduces the actors to the student body. Prior to her presentation of the players she gave a resume of the three one-act plays.

The Class of '63 presented three one-act plays with a total of twenty amateur actors, some plagued by their first case of stage fright. The curtain rose on the evenings of November 16 and 17 on an English comedy, "The Importance of Being Earnest." The second play, "A Cup of Kindness," revolved around a number of unique customers in quest of a valuable book, while "High Window" involved murder on the thirteenth story of a city dwelling. When a vase, purposely dropped on stage, failed to break, and when a cast member tripped, sending scenery crashing to the floor, the players and audience numbering eight hundred were afforded fond yet bewildering memories.

At last Karen Grimm has found someone to make up. The play cast unwillingly waits until the time comes to have that "goey mess" smeared on their faces . . . and the red dots in the corners of their eyes, and for some . . . gray hair spray to give that sophisticated look.

Just take is easy with those pins! . . . Daune Smith and Ann Bender, the costume committee for the senior play, are assisted by Mrs. Uhler in fitting Pat Rohler and Terry Wambaugh.

"You mean you can't commit Walter to an insane asylum?", Emily Winthrop, played by Phyllis Goodyear, asks the Judge, portrayed by David Ziegler. In "High Window," anything goes, and someone did go —out the window.

Will she say "Yes"? Here we find Ann Johnson and Frank Sechrist in the garden rehearsing for the senior play production "The Importance of Being Earnest." Of course, she accepted!

There are always those last minute jitters that bring the play cast together before the play begins. Six nervous Thespians gather around Pam Warner's pocketbook to rehearse their lines.

These busy LEONID typists, Betsy Overmiller, Joan McCoy, Leona Shaull and Hilda Pomraning, are ready to put their nimble fingers to work typing the next issue of the paper.

These editors of the LEONID must be meeting a deadline, so absorbed are they in their task: Feature Editor Pamela Sechrist, Sports Editor Tom Galbreath, and Co-Editors Betty Buecker and Ronald Saylor.

Gaining Experience in Communications

Once a month the LEONID staff rolls the presses and comes out with a new issue of our school paper, and this is no easy task! The staff must be on the job steadily, and it's a common occurrence to see newshounds scrounging around school, trying to get a story. In addition to news articles, however, the LEONID has several pages on the lighter side—the feature pages with items ranging from advice to the lovelorn to crossword puzzles and poems. Reports are given on the athletic events in season, and forecasts are made concerning the team's future. All these plus advertisements and pictures make our LEONID one of the best school papers around!

Industrious members of the newspaper staff prepare LEONIDs for mailing: Ann Johnson, Brenda Gipe, Doris Kreeger, Helen Kowach, and Otilie Jones.

The LEONID kicked off its subscription campaign with a game of Password. Panelists were: Betty Buecker, Mr. Raina, Miss Mitchell, and Ronald Saylor, while Tom Sechrist served as moderator and Mr. Coren as word authority.

Here in the activity office we have caught Assistant Editor David Keperling and Make-up staffer Larry Steffee working extra hours after school on last minute revisions of the dummy, the guide for the developing yearbook.

There is never a dull moment when LION staffers are trying to meet deadlines. The pitter patter of typewriters can be traced to the activity office, where LION typists transform editorial creations into readable material. The business staff keeps records and counts money from sales, while the make-up staff produces layouts for every page. LION photographers, on the other hand, are kept busy taking many memorable pictures, developing, and enlarging. This senior publication is not done in its entirety during the school year, however, for work on it began early last summer.

Harmonious Notes Fill the Band

Smile, everyone, for the LION photographer! At the beginning of another assembly we find Mr. Ward directing the entire concert band as they serenade the students entering the auditorium. There must have been a few sour notes to make this group look so unhappy.

Room and Auditorium

Plumes flying in the breeze, the rumble of drums, and the crash of cymbals announce our Marching Band. Shortly after school is resumed in August, melodious sounds are heard as young Sousas, under the direction of Mr. Ward, iron out the sour notes in their programs. Be it rain or shine, hot or cold, our standard bearers are always at the game. But the end of football season does not mean the end of the band—it sheds its outdoor uniforms, gains a few members, and becomes the Concert Band which appears at the Night of Music, assemblies, the Christmas parade, and the spring park concert.

"Practice makes perfect" seems to please both Judy Mundis and Mr. Ward, as musical notes flow throughout the room.

Girls', Boys' and Mixed Chorus—

A variety of talent is developed within all three vocal groups at Red Lion, the Girls' Chorus, Boys' Chorus, and Mixed Chorus. Time passes all too quickly at weekly practices, but the musical directors, Mrs. Adams and Mr. Ward, feel a real sense of pride as their respective choralists entertain an appreciative student audience at many school functions. One assembly eagerly anticipated by performers and listeners alike is the annual Night of Music. Not to be forgotten is the spirit rung out in song as the choruses, band, and other musical groups celebrate the Christmas season at the final school assembly of the passing year.

Their harmonious voices are pleasant to the ear as Girls' Chorus sings familiar carols at the Christmas assembly. Mrs. Adams is shown directing a portion of the group.

Training Ground for Future Farmers

Four energetic F. F. A. members, Robert Druck, Samuel Flaharty, Richard Hamilton, and Edward Sweeney, prepare to weld some sheet metal together to complete a small feeding trough. Get ready, get set—Go!

Future Nurses were very fortunate this year in receiving visits from doctors and nurses who gave them the scoop on being women in white. These future Florence Nightingales found time to fold bandages for the American Cancer Society and Christmas Seals for the TB Society. The F. F. A. members have also been busy all year, beginning with the York Fair last fall. There, and at the State Farm Show, they displayed their livestock and gained many valuable hints. In addition, these boys work on individual projects which result in experience as well as profit.

Groups Geared to Present or Future

Red Lion's Future Teachers receive an honest-to-goodness opportunity to try their hand at teaching; they observe teachers in action and then try for themselves in the elementary building, on the hill, and in senior high. In addition, they see films and have lectures concerning their future profession. Besides serving breakfast to the faculty, plans are being considered for a field trip to one of the nearby state colleges. They are also going to sponsor one of the Friday morning assemblies in conjunction with the Future Nurses Club, and it is plain to see that these students need no crystal ball to predict their future—they already know, and they're doing something about it!

Suggestions, ideas or comments, anyone? Our future teachers, who seem to be enjoying an interesting round of discussion are: Victor Smith, Rodney Haugh, Betty Buecker, Doris Kreeger, Donna Metzger, Bonnie Tyson and Glenn Wolfgang.

Working with Others

The Tri-Hi-Y, a club for girls which is, strangely enough, affiliated with the Y.M.C.A., does much service-type work in a fun-type way! Sometimes a group of girls puts on a program with skits and pantomimes, but panel discussions, trips, and dances are also on the agenda. This year Tri-Hi-Y members collected sheets to be used as bandages for cancer patients, made favors for children in hospitals at Easter and Christmas, and went Christmas caroling. The main purpose of this organization is "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character."

Librarians is Felt in All Corners of School

The Library Club has a big job keeping books moving smoothly in and out of the library, tracking down magazines and reference materials, and making unique bulletin board and showcase displays, while the Dramatics Club affords opportunities to dramatically-inclined students to try their wings before assemblies and before club members. We must not, however, forget the activity that goes on behind the scenes—the work of the Stage Crew. These boys handle all scenery, lighting, and sound effects, and are always ready to fill any last-minute needs.

Library Club members Eleanor Pickel and Sandra and Bonita Holtzinger spend some of their free periods constructing displays that encourage students to read books more often. Having fun, girls?

Headed by Mr. Posey, Biology Club members perform advanced dissections, write research papers, and review films, while pawns, bishops, knights, and rooks invade the Chess Club, where Mr. Raina and student enthusiasts pursue this game. Those looking for an argument join the Debating Club under Mr. Coren, and will represent Red Lion at competitions, with the Common Market as their topic.

Activities Spotlight Atmosphere of Christmas

Mr. and Mrs. Stover and Mr. and Mrs. Jones are surrounded by gifts brought by the students to the Toys for Tots dance sponsored by the Student Council.

Janelle Frey and Carolyn Eveler, members of senior homeroom B304, work to complete their Christmas door decoration in time for the judging. The finished decoration evidently impressed the judges . . . it received second prize.

The days preceding Christmas found Red Lion's students busily engaged in many activities. The Student Council sponsored the "Toys for Tots" dance on December 15, and conducted a CARE campaign and a homeroom door decorating contest. For the first time the cafeteria was decorated by the Varsity Club, while the art department contributed to the outside trimmings with Santa and three of his little helpers. One of the annual features was the assembly, where varied musical groups helped to spread the true Christmas spirit among the young LIONS.

The Lionaires, a newly-formed musical group, is one of the neatest combos in our school. R.L.A.S.H.S. students really "dig" the "dreamy" sounds this quartet produces.

Teachers' Off Moments

Messrs. Shaffer, Miller and Urey and Mme. Moberly seem to be enjoying their lunch—or could it be that Mr. Fitzkee is entertaining them?

Eek! Our school nurse, Mrs. Rexroth, must have made some exciting dicovery. I wonder what it could be?

"What was that?" Many long, hard hours of work are consumed by Mrs. Starke, adviser of LION '63. Mrs. Stover prepares for management of the '64 LION.

What seems to be the trouble, Mr. Shaffer? By the looks of things, it could be dangerous.

Future Athletic Stars Find Friends and

These junior members of the Varsity Club seem to have something in common. They are Bill Workinger, Dennis Deardorff, and Fred Christensen.

The wearers of a Varsity letter comprise a club which is appropriately enough named the Varsity Club. This large and active group numbering forty continued projects started earlier and began new ones. Operations began immediately after football season with the printing of programs for home basketball games, and continued with a plan to reduce congestion in the school corridors. The boys composed a set of new regulations and then saw that these rules were enforced. Last, there was the initiation of new members; then their annual dance which always varies from the norm—this year a Hawaiian affair!

Competition in G. A. A. and Varsity Club

The G. A. A., a very active body, gives opportunities to young she-LIONS to enjoy their favorite sport, and in so doing, earn points toward a letter or certificate. Some of these sports include wiffle-ball, softball, basketball, and volleyball. Any girl may participate in as many sports as she wants, and she may also "ref" a game, but sports are not the only activities on the agenda. Through the G. A. A., refreshments are sold at interscholastic basketball games, and the girls also help to collect tickets, hand out programs, and, above all, boost school spirit wherever they go. The main event on the G. A. A. calendar, however, is the dance honoring the senior football players. This year's dance was called "Stadium Stomp," and it goes without saying that every one there had a stompin' good time.

Stiff-lipped, wide-eyed Joan Ellis appears to be giving a volleyball a powerful blow. Her serving technique has placed her on the winning G. A. A. volleyball team many times.

"Quick! Somebody get that ball!" and "You let go of my pinni!"; words such as these can often be heard coming from the gym during a rousing G. A. A. basketball game.

Top Honors Bestowed

Is this my size? Finding the proper gown for National Honor Society induction is indeed a trying proposition. However, Rebecca Fackler, Otilie Jones, and Linda Hess seem to have found their match.

Their pledge now given, newly elected members are awarded a place in the National Honor Society. Dave Keperling, regent, has just instructed the group on the pledge of the chapter.

for Academic and Athletic Feats

Outstanding are those industrious individuals who have earned membership in one of the honor societies at our school. There is the Latin Honor Society for second-year, second-semester students who have mastered the Latin language to a suitable degree, seen Caesar through the Gallic Wars, and maintained a 90% or better average in the study of the subject. Then there is the National Athletic Scholarship Society for those boys who have combined brains and brawn. To qualify for membership, students must be in the upper half of their class and have earned a letter in a major sport. On this year's roster are six seniors and four juniors.

Striving for Success;

The word Senior has a magical sound to those bearing it, for it means that all of their years at Red Lion will be over, and they will be marked as alumni forever. Before graduation, Seniors find themselves very busy with both minor and major projects. Name cards, announcements, caps and gowns, the yearbook, and waiting for that all-important "letter of acceptance" to a certain college or university fill the first semester; then, before they realize it, the Junior-Senior Prom, Class Day, Baccalaureate, and Commencement—'63—the most important year of all for these students—and with it, the highest distinction of all—being a Senior.

Here we find the Senior Class officers checking over class records: David Ziegler, president; Ann Bender, treasurer; David Keperling, vice-president; Sandra Markey, secretary.

Enjoying the multiplication number at the annual Valentine Dance are Jere Golden and Sandy Markey, and Carson Larkin and Ann Kehr. The dance, "Sweetheart Saraband," was sponsored by the Student Council. The royal couple was Carson Larkin and Sandy Markey. They and their subjects were entertained by the music of the "Wanderers."

Keyhole Reveals Many

What is the thought that is causing the dubious expression on Linda Wagner's face as she watches Jeff Warner conduct a very tedious experiment?

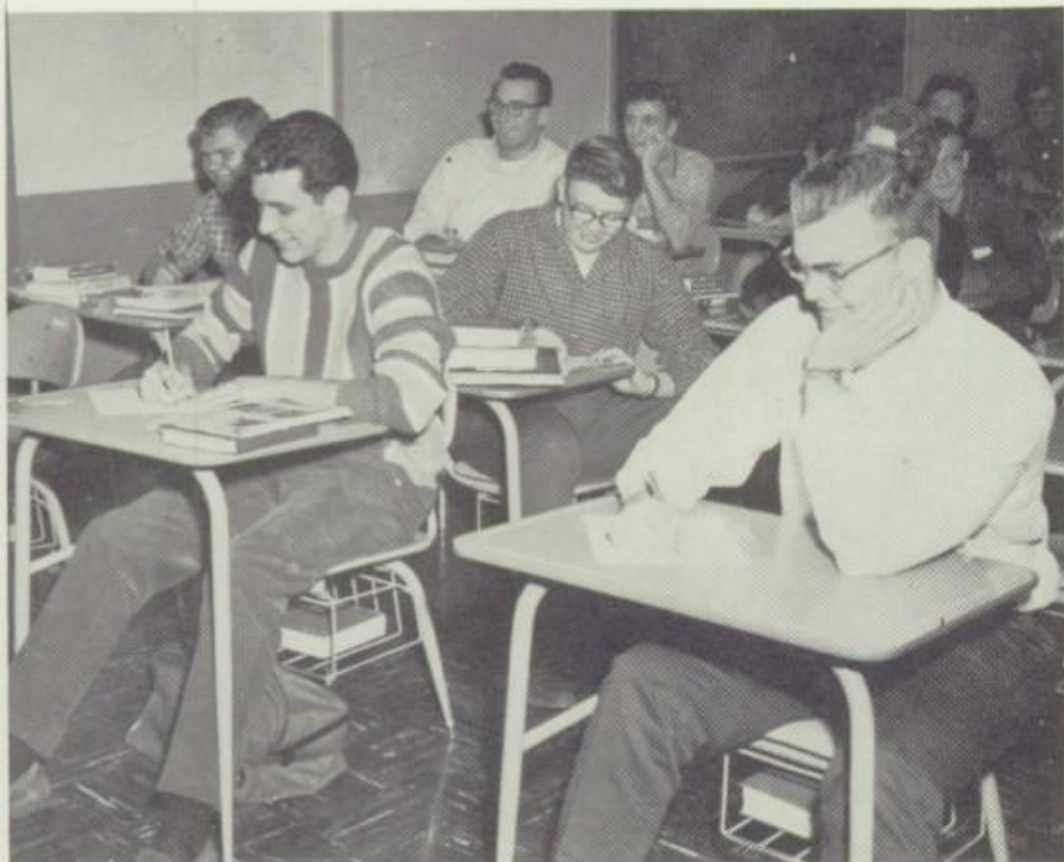

Who ever said three's a crowd? Dave Rost never did. Ann Bender and Pam Warner agree, but by Pam's expression there's some foul play in the air.

"Tee Hee Hee. I was at the fountain," Nancy Graham confides to the hidden photographer.

Right, left, right, now slide . . . and try to hit a few of the pins. These are our instructions for Bob Landis. But for Steve Frey, who has that what-the-heck air, we'll just say . . . try, try again.

Sides of Senior Life

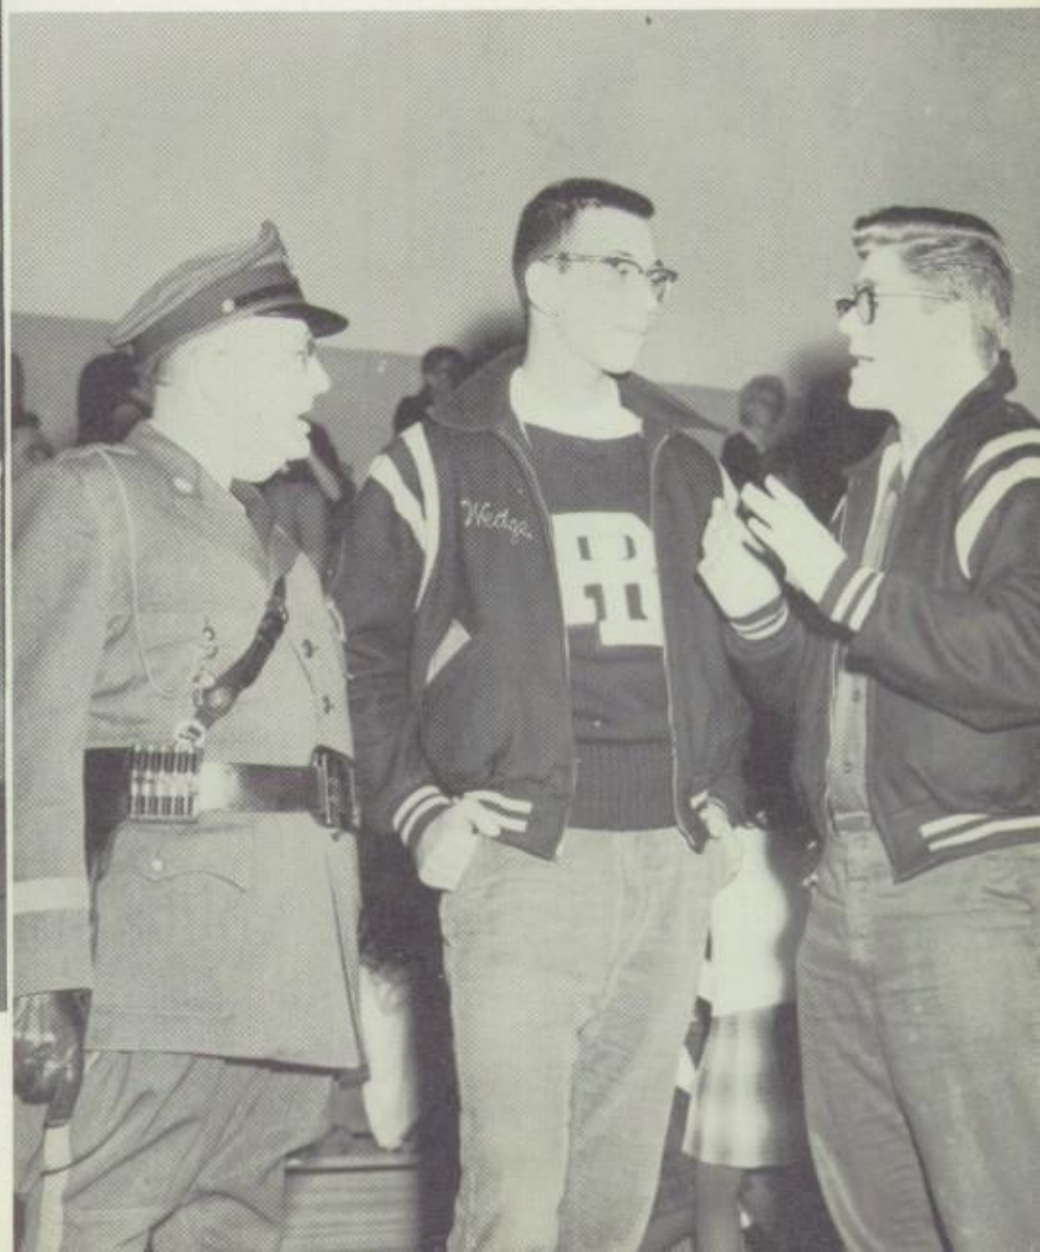

Taking a test and smiling at the same time? Oh, well, maybe the answers for this English class are written on the board. Are they, Paul Hoffmaster and Andre Miller?

Dave Ziegler, our Senior Class President, is taking a nap, and, of all places, in assembly!

Won't that bus ever come? However, these seniors, Janelle Frey, Donna Hoffmaster and Carolyn Oberdorff don't seem to care one way or the other.

Greg Grim and Officer George Rohrbaugh are having a small disagreement at the basketball game. "Wedge" Craig Smith seems to be agreeing with Greg, but you can be sure that the strong arm of the law will win.

KAREN SALLY SILAR

At the beginning of its sophomore year, on September 23, 1960, the Class of 1963 lost its classmate, Karen Sally Silar. Karen, who during her freshman year had been active in G.A.A. and Junior Red Cross, has been a true friend whose memory will remain in the minds of the graduating class.

Frosh Adjust Quickly to the Swing of Things

The Freshman Class with 318 students is the largest in our school, and, armed with unlimited vim, vigor, and vitality, is quickly becoming a part of school functions. It has contributed pep boosters to rallies, clubs, and football and basketball games, and talented musicians to the band, orchestra, and choruses. The boys have done an outstanding job in football and basketball, and the girls have touched off new enthusiasm in G. A. A. Let's hope they have continued success as they pursue their four years of learning, and that they develop into hardy young LIONS.

Just ignore the poison ivy and smile for the camera. Very good! The leaders of the Freshman Class, Kirk Slenker, Vice-president; Patricia Geesey, Treasurer; Christina Sheffer, President, and Peggy Karr, Secretary, are always eager to serve our LION camera as well as their class.

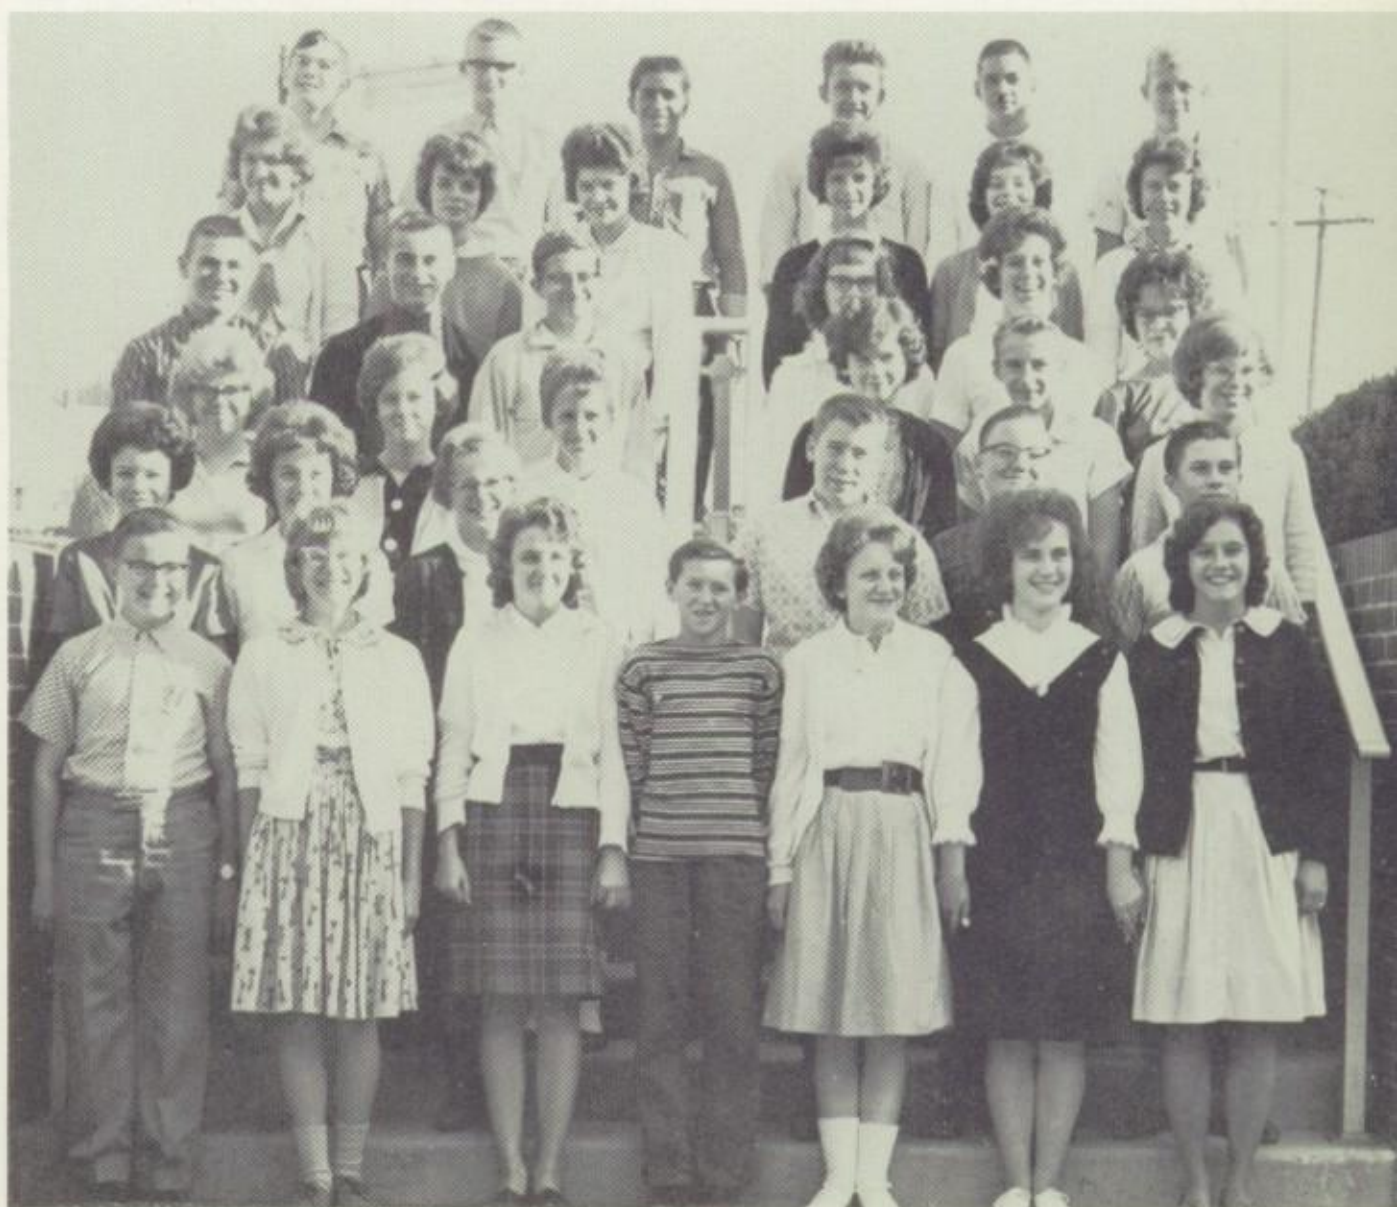

Careful, now! . . . These two eager freshmen, Patsy Dellinger and Darlene Laird, seem delighted with the progress of their experiment.

Applause, just a little applause for Mrs. Jackowick's freshman cast of The Merchant of Venice. Each student purchased his own TAB book containing the script. In this presentation of the play for the English class, each player wore a tag bearing the name of the character he portrayed.

Sophomores Achieve Varsity Status

With one year of experience in senior high behind them, the Sophomore Class was "rarin' to go" as soon as school began—and go it did! Besides providing major support in practically every school organization, these sophs came in second only to the juniors with their float entry in the Homecoming parade—quite an achievement for these up-and-coming students. They not only increased the honor roll lists and acquired a reputation as bulletin board-makers, but also contributed greatly in sports affairs, especially since this was their first year of eligibility for J. V. and Varsity teams.

This year's (solemn) Sophomore Class officers are: Phil Kehr, President; Mary Kilgore, Secretary; Cynthia Keesey, Treasurer; and Lona Beaverson, Vice-president.

This tenth grade history class appears to be deeply intrigued by Mr. Jones's history lecture.

Evidently, not too many students know the answer to Mr. Hugh Miller's question. However, two brave sophomores are going to try their luck. Here's hoping!

The lobby is always in use for one thing or another. Here, it is occupied by students and parents for an evening of getting acquainted at Red Lion Senior High.

A Year Away from Their Number One Goal

With only one year of high school to go, the Class of '64 is progressing full speed ahead. Not only do its athletes constitute the backbone of various teams, but a look at the honor rolls shows that they also have great scholastic ability. Early fall found them busy as bees preparing for a record hop, while their Homecoming float, "Pounce on Ephrata," brought first place honors. Now that they have chosen a class motto and flower, their class play, the Prom, and testing will keep these "jumpin' juniors" very busy, and it's hard to tell to what limits they will go!

The drinking fountain attracts the Junior Class officers: President, Joan Ellis; Treasurer, Linda Hess; Secretary, Lynn Markel; and Vice-president, Joel Sechrist.

If you believe the object of the experiment is to observe the speed with which the little cart will ascend the inclined plane, then never take physics! These juniors are very enthusiastic about learning all they can from physics class, and this is just another one of the many experiments they perform during lab periods.

"No More Homework" Soon

In the spring of the year, a young LION'S fancy turns to . . . activities . . . and more activities. Athletic-minded he-LIONS participate in one sport from this popular trio—track, golf, and baseball—while the seniors eagerly look forward to the end of their high school years and the Prom, Class Day, and Commencement. Our young girl reporter, likewise, is anxiously awaiting the wind-up of her journey "around Red Lion High in 180 days."

The show must go on! Several cast members of the junior play, "No More Homework," try out entrances and actions to accompany their lines, as Mrs. Jackowick instructs.

The Junior Class play-selection committee met early in February to read and select the play which will be performed on the evenings of March 22 and 23. The members of the committee are: Ronald Grim, Phil Thompson, Joan Ellis, Lynn Markel, Tom Sechrist, Dennis Thompson, Joann Ludwig, Otilie Jones, and Mrs. Jackowick.

Will Become a Reality

Now, now, Nancy Kornbau! Let's not be violent. Kathy Bonness and Otilie Jones seem to be entirely unaffected by all this action, while Tom Sechrist's reaction is indescribable. The by-play is from the production, "No More Homework."

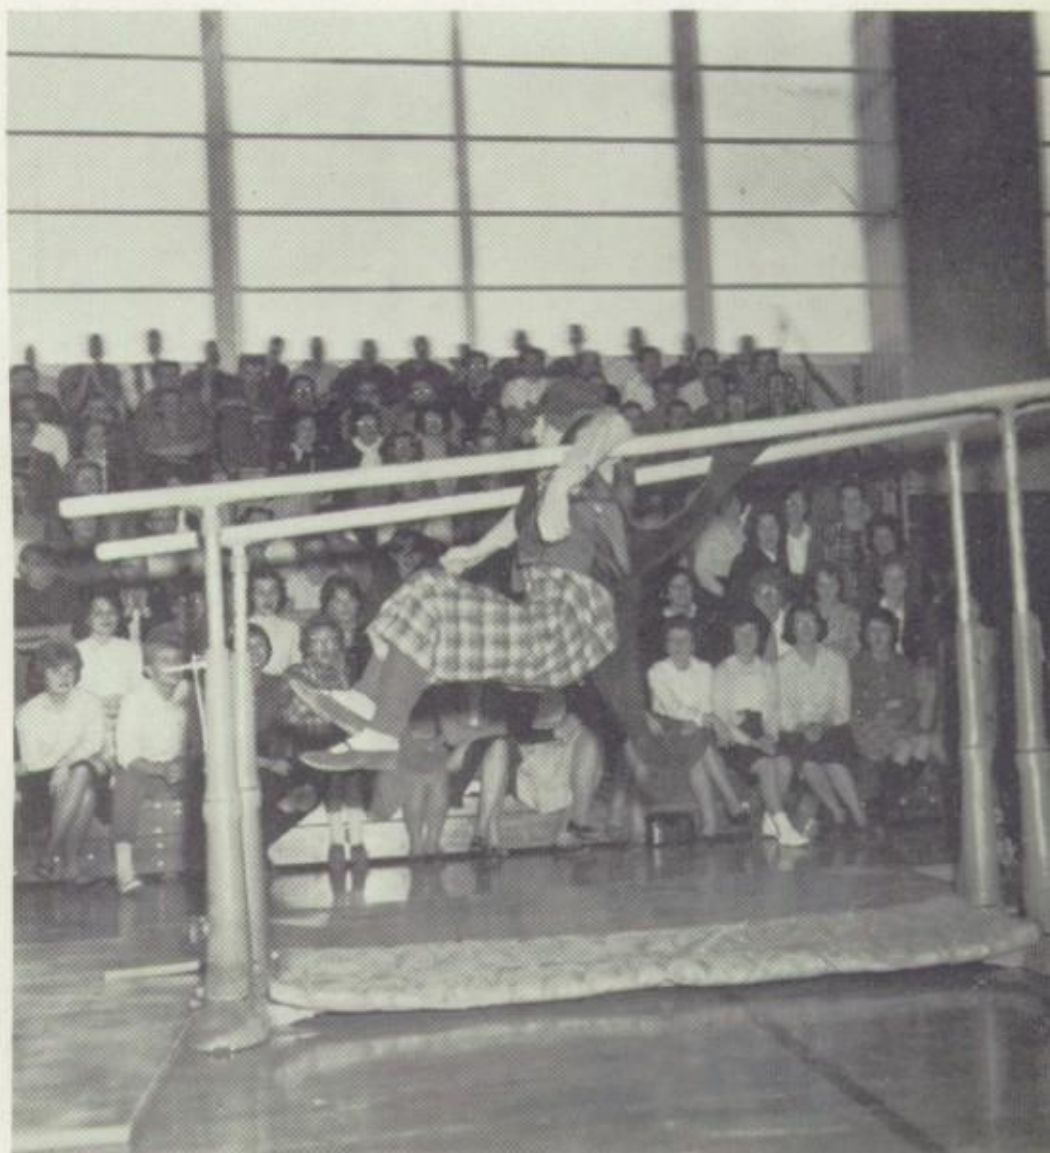

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY . . . March 15 . . . A familiar sight to the LIONS at this time of spring is preparation for the National Honor Society ceremony, when, following tradition, honored juniors and seniors are formally inducted. Tea is then served to members and their parents.

JUNIOR PLAY . . . March 22, 23 . . . A three-act comedy will be presented by the Junior Class. The production, "No More Homework," dramatizes the adventures that ensue when student council officers take over the school after the administration comes down with the flu.

SCIENCE EXHIBIT . . . March 29 . . . Every student taking a science course is required to complete a project. The results of their endeavors are then placed on display for the benefit of parents, friends, and students.

CAREER CONFERENCE . . . April 6 . . . A practical guide to students is the annual career conference, which is scheduled as a part of the school day. Following an opening program in the auditorium, representatives from schools of higher learning meet with students considering their particular vocational areas.

Look, Mom—arms! A quick camera captured this surprising antic of a clown acrobat on the East Stroudsburg gym team. This feat was one of their many skillful displays.

"Oh, Happy Day!" Is Theme Song

These talented artists composing the Prom decorating committee are busy deliberating over possible themes.

As the day approaches for Home Economics, Agriculture, Industrial Arts, Science, and Art Exhibits, busy students are everywhere at work. Janden Myers, Patti Leach, and Ralene Flaharty are intent on their art project.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTIONS . . . April 26 . . . In the spring it is fitting that the Student Council should prepare for the next year by the election of new officers. Election posters add color to our rooms and hallways, and campaign speeches support the candidates as they vie for offices.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM . . . May 10 . . . As always, the Prom is the most important and formal dance of the school year and is strictly reserved for the juniors and seniors. The Prom is a memorable climax to their school years, running second only to Commencement. This year's Prom with its motif of plantation and Bayou will take on a Southern air.

SPRING BAND CONCERT . . . May 12 . . . In Red Lion's Fairmount Park, weather permitting, a band concert will be held to honor the members of its graduating class. G.A.A. . . . This year G.A.A. will participate in the ever-popular outdoor sports such as tennis, softball, and maybe a bit of field hockey, if the weather obliges.

as Students Anticipate May 26

After the ceremonial assembly, a tea is held for members of the National Honor Society and proud parents, providing a relaxing moment following the solemn ritual.

A very delicate operation, indeed! This work of dissecting a feline is being performed by Mr. Posey's advanced biology class.

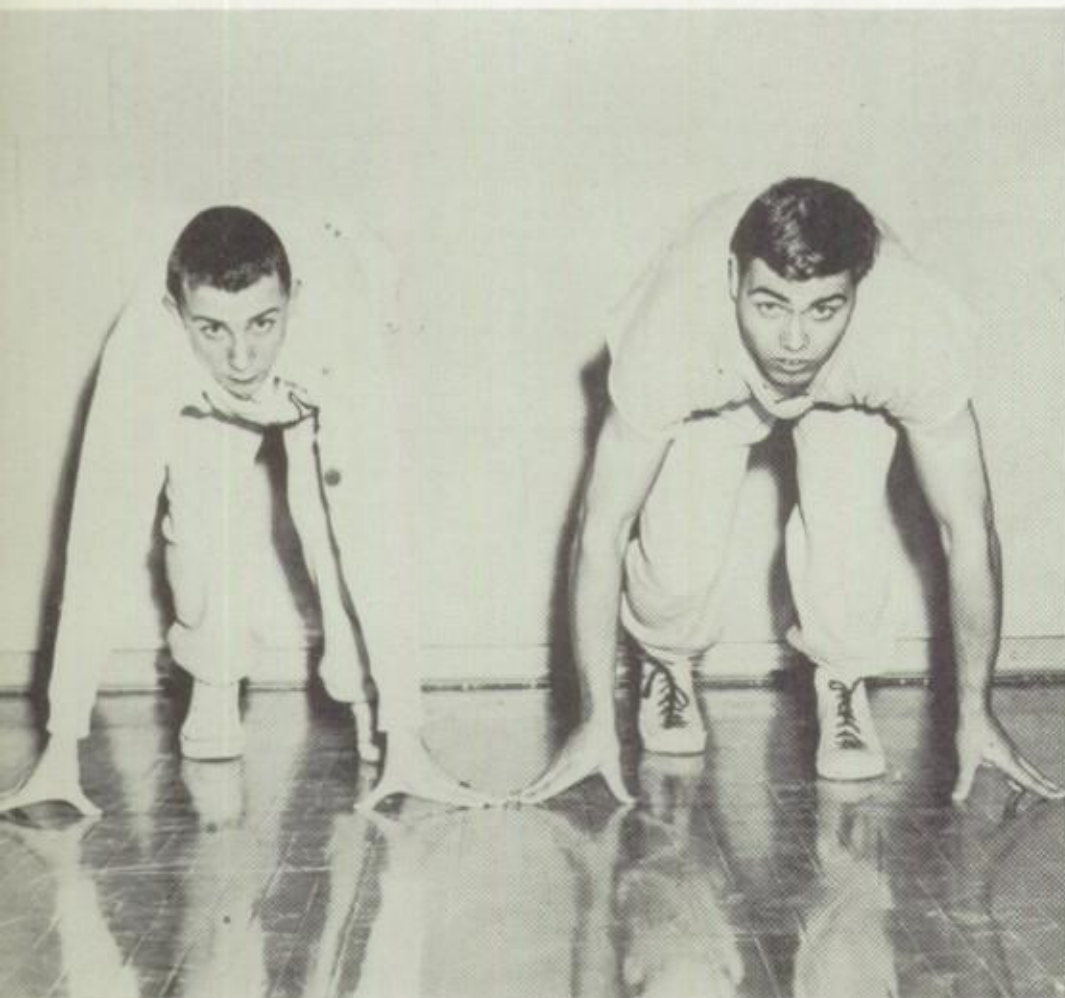

CLASS DAY . . . May 24 . . . In keeping with tradition, the theme of Class Day is known only to the seniors until that day. Then all the seniors put their best foot forward and show off to the underclassmen their shyly hidden talents. The fun and enjoyment of this day makes those long, long years worthwhile.

BACCALAUREATE . . . May 26 . . . Part of the senior graduation ceremonies is Baccalaureate, which is held in the high school auditorium. The various church choirs combine to present music appropriate to this solemn occasion. This year's principal speaker will be the Reverend Edwin Clapper.

COMMENCEMENT . . . May 27 . . . High school life is brought to a grand finale with graduation, when the '63 seniors will become initiated alumni. Student speakers on the theme of Americanism will be: Ann Johnson, Susan Thompson, David Keperling, Milton Loyer and David Ziegler.

FINIS

Into our classrooms and clubs you have gone,
Following our actions from sunrise to dawn.
Along with our young girl reporter you've come,
Parents, friends, and then some.

Our journey around Red Lion High is through,
And a final thanks to our staff is due.
We hope you've enjoyed your trip and the view,
As much as we've liked having you.

My dear Mrs. Lee
I have been a little busy lately
but I have not forgotten you and I am glad to hear from you all the time
I hope you are all well and happy
as ever
Yours truly
John Lee

Bev
To a real swell girl who I wish never talks of you and I forget all the
of that special guy (Galen). Take care

Bev
To a real swell girl who has many boyfriends.
Never forget the wild times at the hop. BA-BY !! Good luck in all you do, and take care of all your men.
Just
Ludy

Ben,

To a mild underclassman.
Don't forget all the fun in typing class. Take care of all those boys (Bradley).
Best of luck.
